SUMMARY.

Accounts from Austrian headquarters describe in serious language the overwhelming strength of the Russian offensive.

The artillery bombardment in the northern sector was so terrific, that the Austrian positions were completely destroyed.

In the infantry attacks the Russians came forward in successive waves, five times superior in numbers to the Austrians.

The Austrians made heroic attempts to stand firm, but were compelled to fall back.

"The loss of our first line," says an Austrian report, "was inevitable in the face of such tactics."

German correspondents acknowledge that the Russians fought brilliantly, only a few hundred being taken prisoner.

A Russian communique on Wednesday reported artillery fire east and south of Brzesany.

The Russians have repulsed attacks eastward of Brzesany, and eastward of Lipitza Dolna.

An Austrian official message claims that the Austrians have recaptured the positions they lost at Brzesany.

The Russians advancing from Western Persia into Turkish territory, have occupied the town of Pendjvin.

All the men of the American first expedition are in permanent camp in the battle zone in Northern France.

The enemy violently bombarded the French lines, especially in certain sectors.

The German losses in Tuesday night's attack on a 10½ miles front were exceptionally heavy.

The enemy achieved nothing, and the attempts have not been renewed.

East of Cerny the French carried a strongly held salient.

On the left of the Meuse the Germans made three successive attacks, accompanied by liquid fire, south-west of Hill 304.

Enemy artillery has been active north-west of the Scarpe and in the neighbourhood of Ypres and Messines.

The enemy's aerial activity continues. The British brought down four machines and drove down five others.

The British slightly advanced their line south-west of Hollebeke, on a front of 600 yards.

A German official report states:—The enemy's fifteenth attempt to regain the ground he lost east of Cerny failed.

During the war the British troops alone have captured 117,776 prisoners, exclusive of natives fighting with the Germans.

The British lost 51,088 prisoners in all the theatres of war, including Indians and natives.

The increasing fear of the Germans that their submarines will fail is shown in the frequency of the declaration that all is well.

The latest messages from Amsterdam state that the strike disorders are increasing.

The military force has been increased, and machine guns are posted at several points.

At least 10,000 struck in Amsterdam on Wednesday, including some munition workers. Efforts to organise a general strike continue.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Amsterdam correspondent states that the seriousness of the situation continues unabated.

The Socialists have held indignation meetings, and adopted the cry, "We asked for food and received bullets."

The reits, it is pointed out, are not in the slightest of an anti-British nature.

Bulgarian newspapers are attacking Greece with increasing violence.

They demand that M. Venizelos's Greece must share the fate of Servia and Roumania.

The journals predict that the conquest of Greece will be rapidly accomplished.

Germany is reported to have stationed a large fleet of U boats in the vicinity of the Azores.

As effort is to be made, it is stated, to cut off the United States from the Allies.

The Argentine has sent a Note to Germany, virtually an ultimatum, threatening to break off relations unless indemnified for outrages.

Mr. Holman was injured by a shell explosion while he was visiting the Western front on Monday.

He was bruised and suffered from shock, but is now recovering.

The Prime Minister made a stirring appeal for recruits in Martin-place yesterday.

He hinted at the possibility of conscription in the event of Australia failing to maintain her position by voluntary effort.

"In asking for 7000 men a month," Mr. Hughes said, "we ask for the very minimum. We ask for that which must be done."

The Lieutenant-Governor presided at the annual meeting of the Sydney Mission to Seamen yesterday.

The report showed that the attendance of seamen at the institute during the year was upwards of 38,000.

The Prime Minister has approved of the appointment of a citizens' committee to conduct the War Savings campaign.

The delegates to the conference of the National Association yesterday visited the Hawkesbury Agricultural College.

A deputation waited on the Acting Premier to protest against the proposal to compel private hire cars to carry a distinctive plate.

Mr. Fuller promised consideration, but remarked that the trouble had arisen through private cars picking up fares.

The appeal of Rex v Eyles in connection with the Pine Dock tragedy was dismissed, the Court overruling all grounds of appeal.

The appeal in the Katoomba murder case, Rex v Shaw, was proceeded with yesterday.

Prisoner's counsel concluded his argument, and the further hearing was adjourned till Monday.

Mr. T. W. Keele, in a paper read before the Royal Society, referred to the schemes for augmenting the water supply of Sydney.

He considered that the Avon dam and the Woronora tunnel should be commenced with the least possible delay.

Mr. J. O. Fairfax gave an address at the annual meeting of the Newcastle Red Cross.

Three shops in Mayne-street, Gulgong, were gutted by fire on Thursday night.

The executive of the Shires Association placed the conference resolutions before the Minister for Local Government yesterday.

The Minister promised consideration, and intimated that some of the reforms were included in the proposed legislation.

The 318th and 319th lists of Australian war casualties record the names of 295 killed in action, 67 died of wounds, and 1658 wounded.

At the stud sheep sales yesterday fair average prices were realised for British breeds.

The Real Estate market showed little alteration during the week, normal conditions of the winter season prevailing.

The indoor sales were well attended, and bidding was fairly brisk, though only in a few cases were the reserves reached.

A fair turnover was effected in mining scrip yesterday, and prices for copper, silver, and gold stocks showed a recovery.

Chief interest was centred in the Edna May group, and Deeps advanced. Consols hardened, but Centrals were a shade weaker.

An advance of 5/ took place in war loan bonds on the Stock Exchange yesterday.

Good business was also done in other investment stocks at generally firm rates.

Chemicals continued in request. Carbide was advanced to £42 a ton. Stocks were extremely low.

Wheat is liberally offered in the London market, but business is slow. Present requirements are well covered.

The London butter market has firmed as the result of the all-round shortage. Australian is very scarce.

The Bank of England discount rate is quoted at 5 per cent. Short loans are 3 higher, at 4¾, and three months' bills 4⅞ per cent. discount.

Forecast.—Fine and cold generally, with many frosts and some fogs; a change for unsettled cloudy weather setting in in the far south-east district.

FACE MASSAGE.

No one need have Freckles or Wrinkles if they come to me for proper treatment.

My system of Massage is built on sound, common-sense lines, and it is the result of experience gained in YEARS of SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. It will improve the sluggish circulation, giving tone to the skin through the agency of proper exercise, so commonly neglected, and building up the tired or unused muscles.

ONE TREATMENT WILL CONVINCE YOU.

Sometimes it is necessary to use a skin and tissue builder; this I have found in

NETTOYER FACE CREAM.

It will feed up the starved tissue of the skin; it helps to clear the skin; and it is invaluable for use before applying powder to the face.

GUARANTEED NOT TO PROMOTE SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

PRICES, 4/6 Small Pot, and 7/6 Large Pot; Postage, 6d extra.

If you suffer with SUNBURN or

FRECKLES,

HAVE YOU TRIED KOKO FOR FALLING HAIR?

You will find Koko the cleanest, most refreshing, and every way delightful dressing for the hair you ever used. Koko is neither Oily, Greasy, Sticky, nor Smelly. It does not make the hair nor make it heavy. No wonder so many women who have become tired of the ordinary hair tonics write so spontaneously and so enthusiastically when they first try Koko. The originals of these two letters may be seen:—

"I am delighted with the results of using Koko. My hair is just lovely, and abundance of new hair is growing, although I had an oatmeal bag full of hair that had come out before I began using Koko."

"Koko is the best dressing for falling hair I have ever tried. I cannot say how pleased I am with Koko, it is so clean to use, and the hair shows the improvement so quickly."

If you have never tried Koko, cut out this Offer No. 5ADP now, and obtain a 4/6 trial bottle (once only), from the Koko Depot, 580 George-street (near King-street). Posted 1/ extra. Enough to last five weeks, and do your hair a world of good.

AMERICA AT WAR, yet we have already received four shipments of those famous American Standard and Standard Model Incubators and another shipment is due to arrive in a few days. Don't be sure you are off the water runs down hill. They are undoubtedly the best hatchers ever imported, they beat all others for quality and quantity. Why not investigate and see? when ex-rets like Charley Cypher and Robert Ewer recommend them

Here is one short testimonial from the Rhode Island State Collage, America. "I cannot recommend your Model Incubators too highly, they have given us four great hatches." Dozens more first-class references from Agricultural colleges, Schools and Government Farms, beside a great number from private users.

The "Harris" Hatcher is three sizes, is still going strong. The "Invicta" 60-egg Incubator, true to type, self-lead hatcher and very cheap at £3/3/. The Harris "Unique" 50-egg, 45/; 25, 30/; 10, 12/6. Reliable Brooders, all sizes.

POULTRY, DOGS, ETC.

FOLLOW A SYSTEM! Your Poultry-keeping operations will be more successful and more pleasant if you carry them out systematically. This particularly applies to feeding methods.

More eggs are lost through the wrong use of good foods than is dreamed of.

If you want to cut out the losses and simplify feeding methods, and at the same time secure the maximum output from your Birds, then follow "THORPE'S WAY."

There is a "Thorpe's Food" for every Poultry feed need. Chick Foods for the chickens. Growing Foods for growing stock, and Laying Foods for the layers. Thorpe's Foods are not extra expense but sound economy.

HOMESEEKERS, HOMESEEKERS,
RENTPAYERS, RENTPAYERS,
Why do you go on paying rent year after year, with nothing to show for it, when you can OWN YOUR HOME with the money you are now paying as rent every week? We will build a Cottage to suit suburbs of Sydney cheaper than anyone else, and we use only FIRST-CLASS MATERIALS. If you own the land, we will BUILD WITHOUT DEPOSIT, according to the value of your land. Or, if you have a reasonable deposit, we will buy the land in any suburb you choose and build to your own design. The repay ments are fixed at a very easy, being from 5/6 per week. This includes interest and principal, and you have the right to pay off at any time. There are no legal expenses of any kind, and your rent does not commence until your house is completed. It is our duty every married man owns his wife and family to provide them with a home; something to fall back on if anything happens to the wage earner, more particularly in these times of stress. We have made SPECIAL PROVISIONS for sickness and misfortune, and if you have saved enough to buy the land, you cannot do better than call and see us about the matter. Do not do that land. Furthermore, we have a list of lots in almost every suburb from which you can select your home site. You can purchase your land on easy terms if you wish, and when paid off we will build your home without further deposit. We have placed many satisfied clients, a few of WHOM WORKED during the past seven years, so there is no reason why you should not get yours on the same easy terms. WE ARE SPECIALISTS IN HOME BUILDING, and employ a competent staff of trained workmen. Time is money out all classes of work, and although others may copy our advertisements, they cannot quote you our prices or offer you our easy terms. We are prepared to erect any kind of building, from a two-roomed W.B. Cottage upwards, and if you are thinking of building, remember it costs you nothing to call and obtain all particulars of prices and terms free from

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

What sinister influences may have been at work in the Russian Government before the revolution, there can be nothing but praise for the fighting power of the Russian armies to which Mr. Stanley Washburn testifies in "The Russian Offensive." His book covers the period from June to September last year, during which Brussiloff launched his great attack on a front of 300 miles, recovered much Russian and occupied a substantial slice of Austrian territory, took some four hundred thousand prisoners and incredible quantities of war-material, and either killed or wounded another half million of the enemy. This would be a remarkable exploit at any time. It becomes more wonderful when one remembers that it came at the end of a series of shattering disasters which would have driven any country but Russia out of the war.

In this advance new tactics were tried. Hitherto, on every front, an attack had been preceded by a violent bombardment, directed at a selected point in the line, which the offensive hoped afterwards tried to pierce. Alexieff and Brussiloff discarded the preliminary intense bombardment. For one thing, although they were now better supplied with munitions, they had none to waste; for another, their objective was not so much to make one big breach in the Austrian line as to percolate it by a number of little channels. At 8 a.m. on June 5 the Russian batteries opened in no fury of cannonading, but "deliberately and methodically searching out previously chosen positions all along the line of 400 versts. Observers carefully checked the effect of each individual shell before another was discharged." So slow and systematic was the fire that the various Austrian staffs seem to have felt no apprehension as to what was going on during the first hours of the bombardment. It was little different from the ordinary artillery "activity" which portends nothing in particular. But the Russians were watching. They did not attempt to destroy the enemy trenches; their object was simply to clear openings through the barbed-wire in order to permit the infantry in assaulting to use their favourite weapon, the bayonet, on which they place more reliance than on shot and shell." At the end of thirty hours practically every Russian unit on a front of 400 versts was storming at the Austrian line.

Mr. Washburn gives a vivid description of the fighting that followed. Its general tendency was, after the initial advance, to concentrate on certain important positions, just as the water, which has overwhelmed a dyke, trickles little cataracts into definite channels. The story was one of these, and the Stokhod, with the terrible carnage at the bridge-head, in some respects the offensive was "a soldier's affair." The character of the terrain gave small opportunity for elaborate tactics or surprises; there was no cover to speak of; the issue at each point depended principally on the capacity to endure and to give a hard pounding. But the enormous area over which the fighting extended demanded generalship of a high order. On the Western front, as we know, the staff is aloof from the hurly-burly of strife, but on the East, where the distances are so much greater, the aloofness of the staff and the ignorance of the front line are both magnified. The staff has to be opportunist. It may receive, as in this offensive, general orders to attack and press forward through the successes developed; all the rest lies in the lap of the gods. The regimental commander may begin with a vague idea of the general scheme and his own part in it, but once the movement has commenced he knows "as much about the situation as a locomotive engineer on a branch line of a trans-continental railroad knows about the financial policy of the board of directors, several thousand miles away." At the front one loses all sense of values. The sanguinary fighting in which one is engaged is wiped out may be merely a feint or a reconnaissance. At division headquarters they may allude to it as "a heavy affair." But as back the corps commander "mentions that some units have been engaged during the day." Back at the army headquarters "they will tell you that nothing of importance has happened, barring a demonstration against a certain position." At the group headquarters it is described as a skirmish, and at general headquarters they have probably never heard of it at all. The official communique of the day is the usual "nothing to report." Yet at the front, says Mr. Washburn, there is nothing to distinguish one of these local actions from an attack which may have for its motives consequences of the most far-reaching importance for the entire front, and in the issue of the war.

As the Russians gradually recovered the territory formerly occupied by the enemy, they were agreeably surprised to find that no damage had been done. The Austrians had destroyed nothing that belonged to the Russian peasants indeed, they had actually cleaned the villages up. Mr. Washburn observes that they certainly knew how to make themselves comfortable with drainage systems, parks, and bandstands, and he came to entertain quite a friendly feeling for these Austrians, against whom as far as he could see, the Russians operation no bitterness whatever. It was surprising that such good conduct might be explained by the fact that they hoped to retire sooner or later, and that it was in their own interest not to despoil the land. But Mr. Washburn testifies to the excellent behaviour of the Austrians as a whole all along the Eastern front. Though he has heard of atrocities, he has seldom been able to substantiate them. He is inclined to believe that the horrors perpetrated in Servia were explained by the authorities, and were foreign to the character of the Austrian soldier, who struck him as an easy-going, kindly individual as a rule. Another element in the case may be that the Austrians were beginning to realise that they were beaten, and had no desire to provoke their adversaries to reprisals. At any rate, everywhere he formed the same impression. The Germans were hated and distrusted even as prisoners. The Austrians were regarded with toleration. The author had many opportunities of talking with the prisoners, as might be expected when almost half a million were taken. He found Austrian units exceedingly low, and it grew worse as the fighting went on. The Austrians would resist a Russian charge only as long as it should be met with machine-gun and rifle fire; when it came to close quarters, they would surrender en masse. They were all demoralised at the close of the Russians. Neither in 1914 or 1915 had they seen anything like it, and they were convinced that Russia must have received reinforcements of French artillery and British or Japanese infantry. They were admittedly tired of the war, and ready to be out of it. They drew dole pictures of the condition of their own country, and, altogether, their reports were most encouraging. If Austria had been the only antagonist to be reckoned with. The Germans, on the other hand, gave no sign of low-ered moral. Their physique was not up to the mark of 1914 and 1915, but their courage was unimpaired, and their confidence about the ultimate issue of the war unshaken. Mr. Washburn interviewed a number of Bavarians, who had been hurried over from Verdun to stiffen the Austrians. Their losses had been heavy, but they were not depressed. They had plenty of men, both for the West and for the East, they said, and everywhere the prospects were good. Mr. Washburn's verdict at the end of this offensive is that Austria must crumble long before Germany. Another heavy blow would drive Austria out of the war, but Germany was very far from collapse. It would take a year or more to make her armies feel any doubts on the score of their final success, and even then they would fight hard with their backs against the wall. When Mr. Washburn wrote he expected great things from the next offensive against the Austrians, which would be the ordinary course of events, have been delivered in the spring of 1917. He was convinced that it would have disposed of Austria. Alas for our hopes. The chance was lost, and Austria given a breathing space to recover her moral. The work has now to be done all over again. AN ADMIRAL'S WIFE.

In "An Admiral's Wife in the Making," Lady Poore continues the reminiscences begun in "Recollections of an Admiral's Wife." "Continues" is, perhaps, hardly the suitable word, for these memoirs leave off where the previous volume commenced. Lady Poore describes her childhood in an Irish deanery, her adolescence in a bishop's palace, her early travels, and her meeting and marriage with the naval officer who was later to make her that exalted being—"the Admiral's Lady." In point of fact, Lady Poore brazenly confesses that in one respect she was singularly unadapted for a sailor's wife. She herself was a wretched sailor. In the years that followed she had a super-abundance of seafaring. If it were possible to take a train she took it, but naval stations have an unfortunate habit of being situated on islands, and her pleasurable memories are interspersed with those of many bad quarters of an hour, for Lady Poore seems to have been almost everywhere in the British Empire. Halifax, Bermuda, various posts in the West Indies, Gibraltar, Malta, Crete, Egypt, the Middle East—these are among the far-flung spots to which she followed the White Ensign. She gossips agreeably about them all, and usually has some interesting information to give which is not to be found in the more conventional book of travels.

She has very kindly memories of Bermuda, the modern earthly paradise, where there is surfing without fear of undertow or sharks, and all the traditional amenities of the coral island without its inconveniences. The chief disability seems to have been the unreliability of the telephone service—this is one that Bermuda shares with larger communities. One morning her housekeeper rang up the butcher, as she thought, "Have you any beef?" she asked. "No." "Have you any mutton?" "No," and so on, through the gamut of flesh food. At last, in withering tones, "And yet you call yourself a butcher!" "I don't," was the indignant reply. "I'm ——, of the R.A." During her travels in the Mediterranean, the author's husband commanded the Hawke, which was torpedoed in the early days of the war. When it met its end it was an old, out-of-date craft, but when Lady Poore knew it it was the smartest ship of the smartest squadron in the smartest service of the world. Yet even the Hawke had humiliating memories. During a ceremonial visit to the Riviera, when the public were invited on board, three ladies came, sat down, and deliberately ate their lunch. At last they asked the officer on watch "when the steamer was going to start?" They had mistaken the Hawke, then the last word in naval construction, for the little steamer that plies between Villefranche and Mentone! (Smith, Elder, and Co.)

PERSIA AND THE WAR.

"The Persian Problem and German Intrigue," the latest number of the "Times" "History of the War," throws an interesting light on a thing that has perplexed many. Persia is, of course, neutral, yet there has been much fighting on her soil; periodically the cables tell us that the Russians or the Turks have driven each other from Tabriz, Kermanshah, or Hamadan. There have been sinister rumours of the treatment of Allied officials and civilians in Persian towns; in fact, for a "neutral" country Persia seems in many ways to have had, either by misfortune or design, an uncommonly close association with the war. The author rapidly surveys so much of her history as is necessary for us to understand her present position.

During the years before the war the internal condition of Persia had become chaotic. A revolution had given the country a Constitution, but the "Young Persians" showed that they were not yet ready to profit by the institutions of democracy. A body of Swedish officers was brought to organise a gendarmerie and check the general disorder, but they were not very successful in their efforts. When war broke out Persia declared her official neutrality. The bulk of the population was hostile to Britain and Russia and sympathised with the Turks, while Germany sedulously worked to bring Persia in on the side of the Central Powers. But more prudent counsels prevailed, reinforced, perhaps, by the remembrance that the British were in Mesopotamia and the Russians in the north-west. Persia, no doubt, was feeble from a military point of view, but her position gave her certain strategic advantages. She might have made things awkward on the Indian frontier, while, lying on the flank of the Mesopotamian expedition, her hostility would have been inconvenient. The Germans very reluctantly abandoned hope of winning her over. The energy, duplicity, and audacity of their agents were extraordinary. The German and Austrian legations became an asylum for broken men, malcontents, and mercenaries of every description. Here these found both arms and money. The gendarmerie, whose services had never been conspicuously brilliant in the maintenance of law and order, gave up the task, and in many cases joined the recruits at the legations, where they had not to wait for their arrears of pay. Towards the end of 1915 the Central Powers commanded quite a substantial force, and decided that the hour had come to strike. The representatives of Germany, Austria, and Turkey left Teheran, and in full uniform marched some miles away. They had with them the leader of the "Democ. tic" party in the National Assembly. They were joined by half of that Assembly and the disbanded gendarmerie and other troops in parade order under German, Turkish, and Swedish officers. In Teheran were the British and Russian Ministers doing their best to dissuade the young Shah from leaving the capital. For an hour Persia's fate hung in the balance. Then, for once, moral suasion gained the day. To the intense disappointment of the motley assemblage waiting on the southern road, word was brought that they need not expect the Shah. The crisis was over; the coup had failed. The army melted away, but the author assures us that for a time it was touch and go. If the advice of the Allied Ministers had not prevailed Persia would now have been among our enemies. He adds that what also weighed with the Shah was the downright loyalty of the Amir of Afghanistan. He had been approached again and again by German emissaries. He refused to have anything to do with them, beyond handing some of them over to the British. Habibullah of Afghanistan knew the British; he knew that they would keep their word, so he kept his. (Times Co.)

AUSTRALIAN VERSE.

Although there is nothing strikingly original in "A Tribute of Verse," by Mr. H. W. Stewart, it contains qualities of sincerity of feeling and power of expression which give it value. The author is one of those whose efforts to serve their country at the front were unavailing, through no fault of his own. He envies his friends engaged on the great adventure, which has brought them honour, and too often death. He commemorates their services, whether they were crowned with a decoration or whether they were merged in the vast grave of the "undistinguished dead." "Dead"—Mr. Stewart will not admit it:—

Not dead—they cannot die,
While in our hearts they live,
Maybe some proud sky
A sepulchre will give.
Maybe a beadle sky
Their helpless dust will grieve—
But yet they cannot die
While in our hearts they live.

We may grow old and die;
They live for ever young,
For song shall testify,
Wherever songs are sung,
Of deeds that for eurrie
The deeds blind Homer strung,
In deathless verse—we die,
They live for ever young.

They live while we remember,
They die if we forget—
Now comes again, December,
And wakens old regret,
For last year's dying ember
With failure seemed to set;
Fear not—only remember,
They die if we forget.

The same idea is repeated in a sonnet, "The Unmarked Road," of which we quote the sextette:—

Here in our peace-girt land the preacher saith,
"Lo, in the midst of Life we are in Death."
In fields of France and Flanders' plains, where strife
And pain and death hold carnival each day,
Men look death in the face, and, laughing, say,
"Lo, in the midst of Death we are in Life."

The proceeds of this book are to be given to the Y.M.C.A. Field Service Fund. (The Examiner Press.)

There is some good stuff in "Commercium," by Mr. Frederick T. Macartney. The author, one guesses, is one of those whose lot in life be sardonically compares to that of a galley slave:—

Pooks in rank suggest a galley
Cured by ever-dipping pens.

There is no romance in business to him, merely a dull routine, where all are bound to the wheel, except of course "The Principal":—

Approaching minions flatter him with "Sir,"
And wait his condescension, being styled
In surnames—like his letters, merely filed
Facilities, to which he may refer.

Even "The Accountant" strikes the author as nothing but a machine, who — holds a balance, not, like Justice, blind,

But pigeon-holes in faculty defined
Each creditor, admonishing the lacks
With legal innuendoes—little knacks
Of inference, which, haply, hint distress,
Or flatter a default as carelessness,
Obscuring, as discarding leaves decrees,
The delicate commercial sanctities.

The author's satire does not spare his fellow galley slaves. Of "The Typiste," for instance, he writes:

Her arrogance she modifies
With practical discretion
Between the nimble use of eyes
And fingers in succession.
Here pretty smartness you behold,
Which, in default of knowledge,
Has mental graces that are sold
By every business college.

You might ascribe her presence here
To sex emancipation,
Were not her goal the woman-sphere
That follows a flirtation.
So, 'tis but chiefly to use
These girl amanuenses,
Who incidentally reduce
The cost of staff expenses.

It is all rather bitter and cynical, but quite clever. Not all slaves of the pen view existence with such a jaundiced eye. Some of them have become accountants and principals themselves; yes, some of them have even married "The Typiste." (S. J. Endacott.)

NEW NOVELS.

"The Amazing Years" is an excellent story by Mr. W. Pett Ridge, whose sympathy and humour seem to be perennial. The Hillier family is true to type: in peace it has many imperfections; in war it develops an energy and a capacity for sacrifice which astonish itself as much as its critics. In peace its members were somewhat selfish and snobbish, immersed in their own particular affairs and sure of their own superiority to the rest of the world. Life was a vista of not very strenuous work and pleasant diversion among their social equals. War destroyed this agreeable prospect. First it deprived the head of the house of his occupation and his income. Afterwards it claimed a more exacting toll from them all. That they came through the ordeal with such credit was due chiefly to the incomparable Weston, ex-nurse, and later guide, philosopher, and friend to the whole family. When the fortunes of the house are at their lowest ebb Weston takes charge. It is she who induces Edward to become a clerkling in the railway and the volatile Katherine to "go into a bank." The pair are ready enough for an adventure, but it is a tradition of the Hilliers that commerce is low, and family prejudice has to be broken down. Weston's next accomplishment is to make Mr. Hillier work; this she does by a skilful appeal to his patriotism and his hobby, and in due course he is getting up gaily at 5 a.m. to go to his own munitions." Two of the family are still refractory—Mrs. Hillier, who yearns for vanished luxury, and Muriel, who is convinced that she is born to be the wife of a rich man. But Weston manages these also. She is a woman of boundless energy. Not content with arranging the destinies of the Hilliers, she transforms her cantankerous brother-in-law into a recruiting agent, and conducts a successful furniture shop. Nor is she too proud to learn when it comes to a question of a frock and a style of hairdressing which makes her look her age instead of ten years older. For this concession a stalwart Q.M.S. is responsible. He considers that since Weston has disposed safely of the Hilliers she may as well think of herself, and she agrees. The story is an admirable one, and Weston is its heroine. Even her detractors are compelled to admit that she has her head screwed on the right way. Her resource is illimitable. She is never at a loss. The Hilliers lament their usual summer tour on the Continent: Weston fills the gap with a new game played with the aid of a Baedeker. They have their tour, feast sumptuously on menus ordered (of course) by Weston, who is a connoisseur in gastronomy, and enjoy all the amenities of travel without its expense. She herself has a caustic tongue but a soft heart, and has no illusions whatever. Even when love overtook her she did not subscribe to the doctrine of the blindness of love. It simply, says she, provides glasses which magnify the virtues and minimise the faults of the beloved. She confesses: "If someone had mentioned that Q.M.S. Cartwright had killed three wives and was now liable to a charge of bigamy I should have contented myself with the reply that at any rate he was a well-spoken and a good-looking man." (Hodder and Stoughton.)

"It is for England," by Mr. Laurence Cowan, is a prose adaptation of a highly successful and patriotic photo-play. One imagines that it was more convincing on the screen, where the spectator is hurried briskly from incident to incident, than in book form, where the reader has time to pause and reflect on the probabilities. It is certainly exciting enough for any one; every chapter closes with a situation, and throughout the characters behave in a very dramatic fashion, which betokens the origin of the novel. Among other celebrities we meet the German Emperor, scowling, scheming, and posing in the approved manner, and a so-called "British" peer of the realm, who is quite an interesting figure. This Rosenbaum is a German, whose naturalisation has not been entirely a sham. The Emperor Wilhelm accuses him of having become a "true Englishman," and there is something in it, for Rosenbaum has, to some extent, absorbed the British outlook on things. But his allegiance is not strong enough to stand the test of war between his own and his adopted country. For the rest, the well-tried ingredients of love, espionage, and gallantry are dexterously combined, and the action is rapid and full of sensation. (Hodder and Stoughton.)

"Painted Clay" is a first novel of considerable promise by Miss Capel Boake, an Australian whose name has literary associations for all Australians. The scene is set in and around Melbourne; the characters are recognisable types of those who inhabit the suburbia and Bohemia of our capitals. Nothing very much happens to them. They go about their business and paint their pictures, and occasionally love not wisely but too well without any very disastrous consequences. Helen Somerset is more individual than the rest. She makes her entry to the workaday world with a temperament already moulded by certain influences—a loveless, lonely childhood, a taciturn, unsympathetic father, and, on her mother's side, an inheritance of beauty and passion. When the father dies Helen might have found a luxurious shelter in an uncle's house, but she prefers to shift for herself. We follow her career in shop and office, and, coincidently, her graduation in the stern school of life. She is a girl with few illusions, for circumstances have shown her much of the seamy side of things. She avoids the pitfalls that beset youthful inexperience. She has seen enough of love to be suspicious of it, yet eventually all her wisdom is not sufficient to prevent her from making a false step. Those who insist upon the happy ending will be glad to learn that, although she has played with fire and has been burned, the scars do not endure for long. As has been said, this novel is a distinctly promising first attempt. Our amiable neighbours will be interested to find their city, their manners, and their customs so faithfully drawn. QUARTERLY REVIEWS.

THE FLEETS OF OUR ALLIES.

Writing in the "Quarterly Review," Mr. Archibald Hurd, the well-known authority on naval matters, remarks that the simultaneous prosecution of hostilities by vast armies in many theatres has led inevitably to a lack of appreciation of the work done at sea. Little is heard of the vast accumulation of naval force which is similarly engaged in the conflict. With the entry of Italy into the war, the number of capital ships—battleships and battle-cruisers—in the opposing fleets was raised to nearly 200, aggregating nearly 2,000,000 tons displacement. The array of cruisers of various types reached 200, and of torpedo craft there were over 700. And now there are the ships of the United States to be added. It is interesting to note that not 10 per cent. of the battleships now in the various fleets have on a single occasion fired a gun in anger. The experience, however, is only what might have been expected, in view of the superiority of naval power opposed to the enemy. If the Allied fleets had won no silent victories, there would be no British armies confronting the enemy in France, Greece, Egypt, Mesopotamia, and East Africa, because their existence depends on the victorious assertion of sea power; and the other armies would have lacked the increased strength which they have drawn from the control of ocean communications. The British fleet is to-day stronger, absolutely and relatively, than when the war opened. But Mr. Hurd does not write only of the British fleet. The position that exists to-day, he says, is largely due to the co-operation, active and efficient, of the fleets of our Allies, French, Italian, Japanese, and Russian. As to Japan, he says, history will record that this Ally placed a generous interpretation on the terms of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and thus made no mean contribution to the final victory over the Central Powers. Regarding the submarine, Mr. Hurd considers that it is not destined to exercise a decisive influence on the course of the war.

THE DARDANELLES REPORT.

The Dardanelles report is the subject of an article in the "Edinburgh Review." The writer, whose identity is hidden in the letter "Z," remarks that the report has given a shock to the British people, but it marks an epoch in the history of the war and of the Empire. In the ordinary course of Cabinet Government, the culprit usually escapes. Mr. Asquith's Government challenged a verdict by granting the inquiry, and they have got it with a vengeance. For the first time since the Crimea the fiction that slackness cannot be brought home to persons at headquarters, has been exploded. "The disposition to attack Lord Cromer, the chairman, and the other members of the Commission for their statement of the case is not creditable. . . . Lord Cromer has ended his life by a service to the country, which will be remembered side by side with his regeneration of Egypt. He has told a plain story with remorseless exactitude, and has exposed shortcomings in official procedure with unrivalled knowledge." After tracing the history of the expedition, the writer says there is little doubt that if Sir John French on landing in France had been hampered as Sir Ian Hamilton was on landing in Turkey, his army would have been annihilated. The Ministry has suspended from further employment in the campaign officers whom they conceived to be responsible for the failures at the Dardanelles. If blame lies, as is apparently the case, on civilians higher up, it is preposterous that they should be allowed to smother their mistakes until the close of the war.

In an article on the same subject in the "Quarterly Review," Mr. Sydney A. Moseley remarks that even before the publication of this report of the greatest epic as well as the bitterest tragedy of modern times, one could foretell what treatment would be meted out to the dramatis personæ. They were either fools or heroes according to their politics. "The Dardanelles fiasco must have rent many a heart," he says, "but the spectacle of this washing of our dirty linen for all the world to see, occasioned more lasting shame. Mistakes in this vast war have not been exclusively confined to this country." He adds that, given adequate support, the splendid heroism of our men would have been crowned with victory as well as glory.

ARCHIVES OF THE WAR.

There is an interesting article in the "Quarterly" dealing with the archives of the war. The task of the historians who have been selected to compile an official record of the war, the writer says, grows more formidable every day. Besides the official archives, there are many personal papers throughout the land which would make no slight contribution to the history of the war, and it is suggested that a complete collection of all documents, books, and pamphlets of any importance, both British and foreign, should be made, and not of these only, but also of posters and other material. "These should be stored in a National War Library, in the British Museum, or elsewhere. It is understood that the German Government is forming a great War Library of this kind at Leipsig; and the future utility of such a collection is too obvious to be insisted on. Moreover, it should be begun at once." Considering the part played by our own soldiers in the Great War, Australia might well act upon some of the suggestions contained in this article. The Mitchell Library at Sydney has made a beginning by receiving soldiers' letters, but the scope of a truly national collection of war literature is vast.

AUSTRALIA AND EMIGRATION.

Mr. A. Wyatt Tilby, writing in the "Edinburgh Review" on the subject of emigration within the Empire, says that compared with the actual war period there will be a large exodus of women from industry when demobilisation brings men back to civil life, but as compared with the pre-war period there will certainly be a large increase of women in industry. There are undoubtedly large numbers of men who have been thoroughly unsettled by active service, and who do not desire to return to their previous employment; and if wages fall, as they are likely to in some trades, the impulse to emigrate will be increasingly felt. Steps should therefore be taken to facilitate emigration for those who wish to emigrate, in order to see that the men who are lost to England are not lost to the Empire. Mr. Tilby goes on to refer to Northern Australia and the sub-tropical region of Western Australia as offering a great field for future development. "These lands," he says, "are by no means deserts. They contain large tracts of fertile grass land, comparable to the best country in New South Wales; they will support great flocks and herds, and grow almost any tropical produce; they are as rich in mineral wealth as in tropical foliage. A great new Australia awaits development here, and those who know the country best are most confident of its brilliant future. . . . In the last twenty years the advance in the study of tropical medicine has begun to revolutionise our notions of what is possible for white men in the torrid zone." He concludes with a suggestion for a new political alignment, cutting off the whole of Northern Australia from coast to coast, at the southern latitude of the Northern Territory, or preferably at the Tropic of Capricorn. The new State thus created would include the present Northern Territory, or most of it, Western Australia north of the Ashburton River, Queensland, north of the Diamantina, and Rockhampton, and probably Papua, with the addition of what was once German New Guinea.

RED CROSS TOURNAMENT.

There will be several exhibition sets by interstate players during the tennis tournament in aid of the Red Cross Society at the Double Bay tennis court to-day. The ladies of the six local tennis clubs, who have organised the tournament have arranged stalls, some of which will be conducted by well-known actresses, and refreshments are to be provided from the Red Cross kitchen.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

During the week the cabled news of the death of Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree has been much discussed in theatrical circles, and also by the many travelled Australians who have seen that artist on the stage. The very great divergence of opinion upon his merits as an actor doubtless arises from the fact that in the course of a very long career as an actor-manager Tree occasionally cast himself for parts to which he was unsuited by age or temperament. Playgoers from here who happened to see him happily placed were satisfied that he was a very fine character-actor. On first nights the cares of production were apt to make him slow with his lines, and his portentous pauses were then broken by the "stage-whispers" of the prompter. This state of affairs was apparently passed over by the critics of the London daily Press, but was frequently referred to in the more candid weeklies and monthly serials. A bald list of Tree's innumerable parts occupies nine or ten columns in such books as "Who's Who in the Theatre," and as in Shakespeare alone he played tragedy and comedy characters, ranging from Hamlet to Falstaff, his standard of actual achievement must have varied a great deal. But apart from this, Tree was a prince amongst producers, lavish in outlay and poetic in conception, and a noble patron of young dramatists. Stephen Phillips owed to him the costly staging of "Herod," "Ulysses," and other blank verse pieces. Four years ago this accomplished and charitable artist published a witty volume of "Thoughts and Afterthoughts," and during the present year another clever book, "Nothing Matters," was published.

Mr. Fred. Shipman, Canadian entrepreneur, returned here during the week with Mrs. Shipman, Miss Pauline Hindley (soprano), and Mr. Ernest Empson (pianist), after a six-months' tour of the East with Paul Dufault as star. The Franco-Canadian tenor left at the end of the tour for his farm at Bagot, Montreal, where he proposed to enjoy several weeks' holiday. Mr. Shipman describes Java as a possible paradise for small shows, but not equal to supporting costly concert parties, the halls being small, and a Dutch Government war tax of 20 per cent. more to the municipalities—a great trial. However, the Dufault group had a magnificent season in Singapore, and appeared twice to packed audiences at the Eden Theatre, Saigon, in the presence of the French admiral and French naval and military officers. There is an exact replica of the Paris Opera House there, of smaller dimensions, and they went over it, but it was closed. The Governor and Lady May attended their five concerts at Hongkong, and after visiting Manila they gave nine concerts at Shanghai to crowded houses, and broke all records. Mr. Shipman now intends to form a refined vaudeville company for the East, engaging the people here if possible, but if not then in America.

The return of Mr. Howard White and Mme. Evelyn Scotney from America will greatly strengthen the winter season of 1917. These singers, who graduated with the famous Boston Opera Company in a great repertoire of bass and lyric soprano roles, propose introducing a number of songs new to Australia, but already popular in the concert-rooms of the United States. The two artists will not reach Sydney until the end of next month. Since leaving here they have been continuously busy. Indeed, they reached San Francisco on October 5, filled an engagement on October 7 at Lodi, and kept right on until their appearance (their sixty-fifth concert) at Worcester (350,000), May 29. The same night they returned to their home in Boston (44 miles), and at 9.30 a.m. next day started upon their long journey to Australia. Mr. White illustrates the populous character of the State of Massachusetts by saying that during February of this year he and his wife sang in 23 different centres, and were only unable to reach their home after the concert on one occasion. The most momentous incident before their departure was the day after America declared war, when a vast recruiting rally was held on Boston Common, which has existed in its present condition as a meeting-ground from many years before the war with Great Britain in 1776. They were engaged to sing the "Star Spangled Banner," accompanied by the band of the 9th Regiment National Guard (Mass.), in the presence of the State Governor, the Mayor, and thousands of troops, who stood at the salute, whilst the cannons roared at the conclusion with a boom that reverberated above the acclamations of a multitude of people. The wave of patriotism was so spirit-stirring as to shake the nerves of the soloists. Nevertheless, they braced themselves for their emotional task, singing the low part of the almost impossible melody in unison, and the higher range in harmony. Towards the end the soprano followed the departure adopted by the regimental trumpeters in rising to a sustained high B flat, and the note, thrown off the sounding-boards on the bandstand, reached the farthest limits of the vast concourse with thrilling effect. Their return is largely due to Mme. Scotney's anxiety to see her parents in Melbourne.

Sydney F. Hoben, who resided in this city for some years as pianist, and musical critic, has followed his long series of interpretative lecture-recitals on opera in Southern California last year with a two-months' stay from Easter of this year at Honolulu for a similar purpose. He forwards from Hawaii under date June 8, cuttings which show that all these instructive entertainments were given at the houses of wealthy hostesses in rooms seating 100 people and over, the subscription being five dollars for four recitals. Nothing of this kind has been attempted in Australia, which might learn something from the United States in the matter of artistic social entertainment. At these matinees Mr. Hoben explained such works as Mascagni's "Iris," Massenet's "Thais," and "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," and Montemezzi's "L'Amore dei tre Re." His operatic lecture-studies were illustrated by himself at the piano. After an absence of eight years in America, Mr. Hoben is now revisiting his mother at Christchurch, until September, when he will return to California, via Tahiti, and will lecture again there before travelling to Victoria, B.C., China, and Japan.

Messrs. Ben Fuller and John Fuller, junr., make the important announcement that they have definitely decided to bring out an entirely new Italian Opera Company next year, opening in Sydney at Easter.

At a Red Cross matinee in Melbourne on July 24, Cyril Maude, who has already been her guest at Coombe Cottage, will appear with Madame Melba in a specially written one-act play in which the prima donna will sing, and the actor speak the dialogue. Mr. Maude will also give the screen scene and the quarrel scene from "School for Scandal," in which he will appear as Sir Peter Teazle, with Lady Susan Fitz Clarence, an English amateur actress, as Lady Teazle. Mr. Maude has received a cablegram from New York notifying the engagement in marriage to a leading citizen there of his daughter, Marjorie, who played the role of Virginia Bullivant in his company during his American tour.

The Royal Comic Opera Company is rehearsing "The Mikado" in Melbourne, with an almost entirely new cast, as follows:—C. H. Workman as Ko Ko, as played by him at the Savoy, London; Reginald Roberts as Nanki Poo; C. H. Bantock, Pooh-Bah; Gladys Moncrieff, Yum-Yum; Minnie Love, Pitti-Sing; Nellie Payne, Peep-Bo; Celia Ghilozi, Katisha. Mr. Workman possesses a fan, on the back of which is an encore-verse written for him by W. S. Gilbert. The next J. C. Williamson novelty for this combination will be a new American comic opera, "The Red Widow."

Following on the sale of the Shaftesbury Theatre lease in London, the Criterion Restaurant and Theatre has changed hands. It seems that £145,000 was offered for the entire block, but only a portion was sold. Sir Charles Wyndham, who opened at the Criterion in "Brighton," in 1875, still holds the lease at £2000 a year.

THE LUXURY OF A BATH is incomplete without the addition of SCRUBB'S AMMONIA, which refreshes and invigorates, and is a most valuable adjunct in the house for all domestic purposes. Sold everywhere, but avoid injurious imitations. PRICE 1/ PER BOTTLE. —Advt.

WAR PROBLEMS.

"The strain of the war," says Archbishop Wright in the course of a pastoral letter, "makes a yet sterner demand upon our national self-control. We see no spectacular advance to victory, but one by one the homes that we know so well are darkened by the loss of gallant lives. Were it not for the deep-seated principles by which our forefathers did their duty we might find ourselves easily exploited in the interests of a premature peace by which Germany alone would be the gainer. It is only the sense of duty, based upon the fear of God, that can enable us to stand firm, as did they to whom we owe our liberties. Then nothing need either daunt or delude us. The day of victory is assured. But we must expect that so subtle a foe as Germany will endeavour to cripple us by delusion or dislocation, since he cannot master us in the field. It is not wise to be over-suspicious, but we do well to be on the alert to analyse any flaunted argument that may tend to unrest either moral or industrial. Often as not we shall discover the hand of an enemy behind. We members of our ancient Church, which has so often steadied the manhood of our race, have a great responsibility at this crisis. As such we must do our part to help to organise the war saving certificate movement, advocated by the Prime Minister. I could wish that the authorities of every parish would consult together, and see whether they cannot promote organisation for this purpose in their district. Side by side I trust that the anti-shouting campaign will not be allowed to drop. No refusal can be taken as final. Each effort to set back should be an incentive to new determination to carry it through. I believe that the women can make their vote a decisive factor, as they did in the early closing referendum. This legislation is only fair to the soldiers who are frequently put into a false position by irresponsible friends, but it should apply all round. Another war problem we ought surely to set our face against is any reprisals wrecked upon innocent civilian life. Shall we stain our race with the sins we rightly denounce in others? Also when did we cease to believe in the God of Righteousness? These questions are their own answer."

The Dean of Sydney will be the preacher at St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow morning. Dudley Buck's "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me" has been chosen as the anthem. It was included in the music at the last Patronal festival, and is a strikingly beautiful composition. The anthem at evening will be "The sun shall be no more thy light by day," by the Rev. H. H. Woodward, minor canon of Worcester Cathedral. He has been chosen in memory of the late Mr James Cunningham, a former member of the Cathedral choir for 25 years, who died at Wynyard-square during the week. The Archbishop will be the preacher.

At the annual meeting of the subscribers to the Sydney Church Endowment Fund, Archdeacon Gunther presiding, the report and balance-sheet, which were presented did not show progress equal to that of some recent years, but were, nevertheless, considered very satisfactory. The committee during the year had secured three additional sites for church purposes, at a cost of £1073 16s, making a total of 70 purchased by the committee on the initiation of its present policy. An appreciation of the services of the late Mr. John Kent was placed on record.

The Rev E H Burgmann, Rector of Wyong, Newcastle, has been appointed travelling secretary of A B M for the dioceses of Newcastle, Armidale, and Grafton. He commences his duties in August next.

The Rev. Chas. Hughesdon, formerly of Moss Vale, has entered upon his new duties as rector of Katoomba. The Rev W. E. Godfrey, the former rector of Katoomba, was appointed rector of Dapto, and the Rev. W. A. O'Neill, rector Dapto, was appointed rector of Moss Vale.

A branch of the Church of England Men's Society has been formed at Katoomba, with Mr A. K Day as hon secretary. The Rev. C. Hughesdon, who has just taken charge at Katoomba, founded a branch at St Michael's, Surry Hills. Provisional registration has been granted for the formation of a branch at St Philip's, Auburn, and it is expected to hold an initiation service at an early date.

The Rev. P. J. Baseley has decided, after consultation with the general committee of the Church Missionary Society, to postpone until next year his projected tour of the mission fields. This change of plans has been made owing to war conditions and the unsettled state of China.

To-morrow afternoon Archbishop Kelly will open the new school for the Christian Brothers, in Carrington-road, Waverley.

The Rev. P. J. O'Donovan, the parish priest of Gundagai, is at present a patient in the Lewisham Hospital.

Archdeacon Beechinor, the senior priest of Tasmania, recently celebrated the 54th anniversary of his ordination.

In a letter to the Catholic Federation the Federal Board of Censors denies that "improper films" are now imported. It is added: "If any film does not correspond with the synopsis submitted, it is liable to seizure. No cases of that kind have occurred."

At the meeting of the Presbytery of the Richmond at Lismore on Tuesday the Rev. Alex. Fraser, of St. Philip's Church, Newcastle, was unanimously nominated for the State Moderatorship of the General Assembly for the year 1918. Mr Fraser was once minister at Mid-Clarence (Cowper) and later at Grafton, and was Clerk of Presbytery for about 10 or 11 years. The strength of the vote was 16.

"The movement towards union in Scotland goes on apace," says the Presbyterian "Messenger." "The prospects of union of the two great Presbyterian Churches are bright indeed. A congress was recently held in Edinburgh of great weight and power, and it captured the imagination no less than the first Methodist Church in the Shoalhaven circuit. The church was situated at Terrara.

The connexional temperance committee of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Great Britain, has petitioned the Government to enact prohibition during the period of the war and demobilisation.

On Monday evening a special meeting will be held in the Congregational Church, North Sydney, to bid farewell to Rev F. V. Dowling, M.A., who has been ordered by the military authorities to hold himself in readiness to leave for the front, as chaplain, at an early date.

The Rev J. J. Willings, pastor of the Newtown Congregational Church, has signified his intention of resigning the charge at the end of October next, when he will complete four years' ministry at Newtown.

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Barton and Mr. Justice Rich, at Darlinghurst.)

An application was made on behalf of Edward Osborne Litchfield, solicitor of the Supreme Court, for special leave to appeal against an order made by Mr. Justice Ferguson, attaching applicant for contempt. Mr. Allan Lloyd, instructed by Mr. A. J. Green, appeared in support of the application. Applicant, in his affidavit, stated that an order had been made by Mr. Justice Ferguson on May 4 for payment by him to the attorney of Siegfried William Griffith of a certain sum of money. On June 8 Mr. Justice Sly, sitting as for the Full Court, granted a rule nisi, calling upon applicant to show cause why he should not be committed to prison for non-compliance with the order of the Court. Mr. Justice Ferguson subsequently amended the rule nisi by deleting the words "committed to prison," and substituting therefor "attached for contempt," and granted a rule absolute without costs, the order to lie in the office for one month. The affidavit of applicant also set out that important questions of law were involved, viz.:—(1) Whether the Supreme Court had power to attach a person for non-payment of moneys or costs ordered by such Court to be paid to another person; and (2) whether the Supreme Court had any discretion to refuse to grant attachment in such a case. Special leave to appeal was granted.

ALLEGED BREACH OF AGREEMENT.
Winter v Blundell.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Armstrong, instructed by Mr William Arnot, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Windeyer and Mr. Collins, instructed by Messrs. A. J. M'Donald and Kemmis, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Fountain Anthony Winter against Richard Peter Blundell to recover compensation for alleged breach of agreement. The case on both sides has already been stated.

The jury returned a verdict for defendant.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

The action Watson v Thompson, arising out of a contract for the sale of sheep, is still part heard before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

MOTOR CAR COLLISION.
Biffin v Barden.

Mr. Curtis, instructed by Messrs. J. Stuart Thom and Company, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Watt, instructed by Mr. H. E. Macintosh for the defendant. This was an action brought by Dr. Biffin, of North Sydney, against Thomas Henry Barden, cordial manufacturer, also of North Sydney, to recover £100 compensation for injuries sustained by plaintiff in consequence of the alleged negligent driving of the defendant. The action arose out of a motor collision at the corner of Chandos and Alexander streets, North Sydney, which occurred shortly before 1 o'clock on April 26 last. Defendant denied the negligence charged against him.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff, with damages £77 2s.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

BUSINESS DISPUTE SETTLED.
Thompson v McDonald.

On August 18, 1912, Thomas Thompson, the plaintiff, bought from Mary Ann McDonald, the defendant, the goodwill, etc., of the business of a shipping grocery storekeeper carried on at the latter at 25 Kent-street, Sydney. Plaintiff alleged that the defendant agreed that neither she nor any of her relations would carry on a like business within a five miles' radius of the Kent-street premises. Plaintiff also asked for an injunction restraining the defendant from breaking the agreement.

The defendant consented to a decree restraining her by injunction from carrying on the same kind of business within the said radius for the term of five years from August 18, 1912, either personally or jointly with anyone else. Defendant also undertook not to apply to any old customers to deal with her or with one Robert Byrnes. The terms of settlement were agreed to by Mr. H. C. Ellison Rich and Son for the plaintiff; and by Messrs. Sly and Russell for the defendant.

EXTENSION OF CAVEAT.
Blick v Baker.

An application was made by William Henry Baker to the Registrar-General early this year to bring under the Real Property Act, 1900, 3 r. of land at Black Creek, in the County of Northumberland. On April 10 last, Thomas Henry Blick lodged a caveat with the Registrar-General, claiming an estate or interest in the said land. It was stated on affidavit that W. H. Baker had not filed a case in connection with his application, nor had he taken any proceedings to establish his title to the land.

Mr. C. Davidson, instructed by Mr. W. J. Enright, of West Maitland (Sydney agent, Mr. S. E. Pile), who appeared for T. H. Blick, stated that the caveat lodged would lapse unless the Court granted an order or injunction restraining the Registrar-General from bringing the land in question under the Real Property Act. His Honor granted the injunction, as asked, till the further order of the Court.

DISPUTED LIFE POLICY.
Beard v Perpetual Trustee Co., Ltd.

This part-heard case was concluded. His Honor reserved judgment.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

TESTATOR'S FAMILY MAINTENANCE.
Widow and Daughter's Applications.

Mr. R. S. Edwards, instructed by Messrs. C. T. Poole and Son, appeared for Mary Byrne, widow of John Byrne, of Broadwater, Richmond River. Mr. F. J. Bethune, instructed by Mr. J. H. Holdship, appeared for Jane Ellen Peterson, daughter of the deceased. Both applicants asked for adequate provision for their maintenance out of the estate of the said John Byrne. Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. E. H. Newman (Sydney agent for Mr. P. E. Tighe, of Ballina), represented the executors of the estate.

John Byrne died on March 5, 1916, leaving an estate valued at £12,381 19s 6d. To his widow and daughter, the present applicants, he bequeathed £65 a year each. The estimated income of his estate was about £400 a year.

His Honor held that Mrs. Byrne should be paid an additional £143 per annum by monthly payments; and that Mrs Peterson should be paid an additional annuity of £39, to commence from July 1, 1918. Mrs Byrne's allowance is to begin from the date of her application to the Court. Notice of this order is to be given to J. J. Byrne, for the purpose of determining in which way the increased annuities should be charged against the beneficiaries. Adjourned to 31st inst.

INTERPRETATION OF WILL.
Henry Kinsella's Will.

Mr. Browne appeared for the plaintiffs, Mary Kinsella and John Holliday, executrix and executor respectively of the will and codicil of Henry Kinsella, of Bexley; Mr. F. R. Jordan appeared for the defendant, Henry Kinsella; and Mr. F. J. Bethune for the infant defendant, William Henry Pentreath Kinsella. Messrs. Norton, Smith, and Co. were the instructing solicitors for all parties.

The testator, who died on March 3, 1915, left an estate valued at £62,287. The realty consists of city and suburban properties. The trustees asked inter alia for a definition by the Court of who were "surviving children," and who were the persons "beneficially entitled" to the real estate.

His Honor held that the surviving children were those who survived testator's widow; that the persons beneficially entitled were the persons surviving the widow, and that the estate was indefeasibly vested. His Honor added that, with Mrs. Kinsella's consent, the trustees may advance to each of the children up to 1-12th of the estate value, either by payment of money raised by mortgage or by appropriation of a proper portion of the real estate.

ALBION HOTEL, SINGLETON.
Ball v Ball.

Mr. J. A. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Gould and Shaw (Sydney agents for Mr. W. J. Cross, of Singleton) appeared for Alice Therburn Ball, the plaintiff (executor of the will of Eliza Rebecca Ball); Mr. D. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. A. B. Shaw and M'Donald, appeared for the defendants, Alexander Ernest and T. A. Ball; and Mr. J. J. M'Donald for the defendant, Catherine Ball.

The matter in dispute related to testatrix's devise of the Albion Hotel, Singleton. Counsel announced that a settlement had been arrived at, on the following terms:—(1) That the net assets of the estate, as disclosed by the stamp affidavit, be distributed between the plaintiff and the defendant, A. E. Ball; (2) that the plaintiff be the absolute owner of the lease, license, etc., of the Albion Hotel, including stock, etc., subject to outstanding trade accounts. The defendant A. E. Ball guarantees that the accounts incurred by him, since February 1 last, do not exceed £360. The latter is to call before the Court to allow mention of certain clauses in the award which his Honor considered ultra vires. One such clause sought to make it obligatory upon apprentice to attend for technical instruction. His Honor approved of the idea, and embodied it in an append

ON THE LAND.

EARLY DAYS ON THE MURRAY.

(BY I.G.)

My grandmother has given me some memories of the early days:—In 1842 my father and mother moved down the Murray, taking all their belongings including a few ducks, in drays from Albury. They settled on "Woperana," not far from Toonwurai, where they built a homestead. At that time this station was owned by Messrs. Huon and Tester, and my father afterwards bought it from them. The homestead was close to the bank of the Murray, and 180 miles from Melbourne. As there were then no bridges, the Murray had to be crossed by means of a log punt worked by a rope stretched from bank to bank, and when we went travelling all the rivers and creeks along the route were crossed in any way that seemed best.

We made our visits to the city in the autumn, when the weather was fine and the roads were good. Extensive preparations were necessary for this trip, and the cooking of all kinds of food was an important item. We camped out and picnicked all the way and usually had a very enjoyable time. A light conveyance carried the family, and bullock drays went also to take back the station supplies. This trip was undertaken at the most only twice a year, and very often the autumn visit had to suffice. So that if anything in the way of stores was forgotten it possibly meant a year's shortage.

The blacks were very numerous on the Murray at that time, and rather troublesome, although they never did us any harm.

My father always grew some wheat, but as there were no mills flour could not be had. However, he obtained some steel handmills, and the black women ground the wheat and then the flour was sifted through sets of sieves until fine enough for use. The wheat was stored in a slab house built for it, and the blacks used to come across the river at night, scrape holes in the walls, and steal the wheat.

There were, of course, no schools, so we always had a tutor. One that I remember very clearly was fresh from Cambridge, and came accompanied by a truly remarkable outfit. He was with us for several years, and took a keen interest in the blacks. None of us were at all afraid of the natives, being, in fact, genuinely fond of them, and he followed our lead. It was wonderful to see several hundreds of them returning from a day's hunting literally laden with game of all descriptions—kangaroos, opossums, ducks, etc. There was a mighty roast, and the blacks feasted as long as the food held out. Our tutor always went to the camps after a day's hunting, and tasted most things, even to grilled snake. The blacks ate snake when killed by themselves because they were then sure the reptile had not bitten itself when being killed.

In the very early days of no mails letters and papers were scarce. Any person coming down, as it was called, brought his neighbours' mails as far as he came; the next person brought them a stage lower, and thus they gradually reached those for whom they were intended. At that time papers when received from Sydney would be two months old. Later on, however, we had a fortnightly mail service from Albury. For many years, of course, there were no police or magistrates, so when anyone was drowned or killed my father had them buried. The little burial ground that he enclosed up in the sandhills is there to this day. A good many people met their deaths by drowning, and rest in the little graveyard.

When the Murray was navigated, and the first boat, the Lady Augusta, came up, it was very exciting for those living along the banks. One fine day she arrived at Wopenana, and the blacks, when they heard the whistle sound before the boat came round the bend of the river, were quite sure it was the bunyip. The steamers plying up and down the river from Adelaide brought all kinds of things and took away some of the produce. Flood time on the Murray was very monotonous, as no doubt it is now. No one could come in except in canoes, and the water flowed into all the buildings on the place except the dwelling-house.

MERINO WOOL VERSUS WHEAT.

Mr. W. E. Abbott writes:—Reading your article re stud flocks and closer settlement, it seems to me the proper time to go a little deeper into the question than our flockmen have been accustomed. Nearly all our land legislation for the last thirty years has been directed to preventing the woolgrower from out-bidding the wheat-grower when our public lands are offered for sale. Yet, as the open market for land that will carry a sheep to the acre, or grow the average state crop of 12 bushels to the acre, the woolgrower, if unhampered, is always will out-bid the wheat grower. You can only be because the woolgrower, by adding one merino sheep to the acre, can make more and produce more wealth to the acre than the wheatgrower can. There is no sentiment about it. The woolgrower with good sheep to the acre country can produce about 10lb of merino wool, which, when it is completely worked up into a suit and a fit. Of course, in the case of wheat, the working up is done in Australia, and in that of wool in Europe, but there is no reason why both should not ultimately be worked up in Australia.

WEIGHT OF OLD WHEAT.

JERILDERIE.—An instance of the extent to which the old-stocked wheat has increased in weight is given by two agents operating at Oaklands, who have shipped their old stocks to the seaboard. They estimate that the increased weight of their wheat alone will return an additional sum of £1200 to the pool. As this only applies to two firms' wheat the gross increase on all the stacks should be very considerable.

BOT FLY.

ORANGE.—The bot fly has made its appearance again in the Millthorpe district, where horses have succumbed to the ravages of the pest.

COUNTRY STOCK AGENTS.

The annual general meeting of the Country Stock and Station Agents' Association was held on Thursday evening. There was a very large, representative attendance of members; and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Mr. R. Griffiths (Narromine); vice-presidents, Messrs. J. Cadell (Dubbo) and W. J. Hawke (Armidale); council, Messrs. J. Jeremy, T. C. Humphrys, A. K. Butter, R. Gibson, E. H. Quodling, J. Collins, A. Lane, A. Raleigh, P. S. Antill, J. W. Linklater, C. K. Rose, C. Murray, A. H. Turner, J. T. Crane, A. Gilmore, A. E. Skinner, J. Wheatley, D. M'Gregor, H. King, and J. Campbell; auditor, Mr. W. F. Allworth; hon. treasurer, Mr. E. Cahill.

The balance-sheet disclosed a credit balance of £1158 2s 6d, of which it was decided to invest £1000 in War Savings Certificates, donate £10 to France's Day, and £25 to the Anzac Buffet Fund.

SELLING WHEAT.

BOMBALA.—Mr. W. Millard, M.L.A., has informed the Mayor of Bombala that no objection will be raised to the farmer selling his wheat to the public, and no claim will be made by the department for wheat gristed.

Farmers are not prevented from selling their wheat locally, excepting within 100 miles of Sydney, but cannot send it over the railways without the permission of the State Wheat Office.

OUR WATER SUPPLY.

At a meeting of the Royal Society on Wednesday night a paper by Mr. T. W. Keele, M.I.C.E., was read. In it he the author referred to the Wollondilly proposal. He said briefly it would consist in the construction of a huge dam of 140,000,000,000 gallons capacity, which would be sufficient to supply the maximum quantity required in Walla Walla, Melbourne, Ballarat, &c., with a 50-ft. overflow on the south side. During the next seven years from the present time, the author had endeavored to show that there may not be a sufficient reserve storage to meet a possible protracted dry period, and it was therefore obvious that the only way to make the position secure would be to commence the works earlier than he had shown, which would mean that the Avon dam and the Woronora tunnel should be commenced at once, or otherwise with the least possible delay.

STEAMER ASHORE.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The steamer Corrimal, belonging to Yuill and Co., Ltd., and under charter to the Brisbane Milling Company, went ashore on Venus Bank, Moreton Bay, last evening, while entering port on her voyage from Sydney. The Corrimal, which is laden with wheat, is reported to have a list to port.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

A deputation, representing the executive of the Shires' Association, waited on the Minister for Local Government (Mr. Fitzgerald) to put before him various recommendations and resolutions passed at the last shires' conference. Mr. A. K. Trethowan, M.L.C., introduced the deputation. The Minister promised to consider the questions put before him, and mentioned that some of the reforms asked were already included in proposed legislation. With regard to a request that shire councils should be represented on licensing benches, Mr. Fitzgerald said that the condition of some country hotels was certainly disgraceful. If the Licensees Reduction Association did not take the matter up, power must be given to local authorities.

PRIVATE HIRE CARS.

A deputation from the Private Hire Motor Car Owners' Association (introduced by Mr. Latimer, M.L.A.) waited on the Acting Premier yesterday to protest against the proposal to compel private hire cars to carry a distinctive plate. The deputation repudiated any desire to interfere with the living of taxi-cab drivers. Mr. Fuller promised to look into the matter with the traffic authorities, but remarked that the trouble had arisen through private cars picking up fares in the streets.

WEST FRONT.

GERMAN ATTACK.

COMPLETELY REPULSED.

LONDON, July 5.

The following French communiques have been published:—

THURSDAY, ISSUED MID-DAY:

The enemy violently bombarded our lines, especially in certain sectors.

The German losses in Tuesday night's attacks on a 10½ miles' front were exceptionally heavy. They achieved nothing, and the attempts have not been renewed. On the contrary, east of Cerny, we carried a strongly-held salient.

We repulsed, on the left of the Meuse three successive attacks. They were accompanied by liquid fire south-west of Hill 304. The artillery duel is most lively here.

THURSDAY, ISSUED 3 P.M.:—

Fairly considerable reciprocal artillery fire has taken place in the regions of Moronvillers, Prunay, and Hill 304. An enemy aeroplane was brought down by machine-gun fire.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report states: The enemy's 15th attempt to regain the ground lost eastward of Cerny failed.

BRITISH FRONT.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig has issued the following statements:—

WEDNESDAY, ISSUED MIDNIGHT:

There were enemy raids southward of Lens and eastward of Loos.

Enemy artillery has been active northward of the Scarpe, and in the neighbourhood of Ypres and Messines.

The enemy's aerial activity continues. We brought down four and drove down five enemy machines. One of ours is missing.

THURSDAY, ISSUED 1.5 p.m.:

We slightly advanced our line southwest of Hollebeke on a front of 600 yards.

We successfully carried out raids in the vicinity of Wellje and Nieuport.

HARASSING THE ENEMY

A message from Paris says that military experts consider that even if the Russian offensive does not fully develop and reach the intensity we should wish it will compel the enemy to begin his interminable hurrying to and from the East and West fronts.

BRITISH AIR RAID.

The Admiralty reports that on the nights of July 3 and 4 naval aeroplanes dropped several tons of bombs on the aerodromes at Ghistelles and Nieumanster, the seaplane sheds at Ostend, and a train at Zerrin. The machines returned.

AIR SUPREMACY.

The correspondent of the United Press Agency at Ypres states that the enemy heavily shelled the Canadian trenches southward of Lens. Enemy raids were resultless.

The German High Command, realising the British air superiority, has ordered the grouping of the aeroplane fleets into "flying circuses," as they are called by the British soldiers, because they move up and down the line to fulfil their engagement, as the British meanwhile deliver their blows at them.

THE AMERICANS.

The American troops have moved from base camps to instruction camps, and will reach the trenches sooner than most people expect.

According to the Paris correspondent of the United Press Association the first expeditionary force will be in permanent camp in the battle zone on July 15.

GERMAN PRISONERS.

It is officially announced that from the commencement of the war the British troops alone have captured 117,776 prisoners, exclusive of natives fighting with the Germans. The British lost 51,088 prisoners in all the theatres of war, including Indians and natives. They captured 739 guns and lost 133. They recaptured 37, not included in the 739, thus making 96 lost, compared with 739 captured. The British have not lost a single gun on the Western front since April, 1915. Since April last on the Western front the British and French have captured 63,222 prisoners, 509 guns, 563 trench mortars, and 1318 machine-guns.

GREECE.

BULGARIAN ANGER.

An Amsterdam message states that Bulgarian newspapers are attacking Greece with increasing violence. They demand that Venizelos's Greece must share Servia's and Roumania's fate, and predict that the conquest of Greece will be rapidly accomplished.

A message from Athens states that the Greek Government has decided to arm merchantmen.

A Royal decree dismisses 83 magistrates who abandoned their positions on the outbreak of the National movement.

TERRORISM IN SERVIA.

It is reported from Berne that during May 62 Servians were court-martialled and shot for refusing to serve in the Bulgarian army. The sentences were carried out in the presence of a number of other Servians with the object of intimidating them.

MAJOR-GENERAL HOLMES.

Much regret is expressed among Australians in England at the death of Major-General Holmes. He was one of the most popular leaders, and was prominent in the battle of Messines. The soldiers universally describe him as a "white man."

CONSERVING DANISH GRAIN

It is reported from Copenhagen that in view of the shortage of grain from America the Government will prohibit the sale of any Danish grain the product of this year.

THE RUSSIANS.

SMASHING ATTACKS.

ENEMY DRIVEN BACK.

A Russian communique issued at midnight on Wednesday says:—

There is artillery fire, with varying intensity, eastward and south-eastward of Brzezany, where our attack has not materialised.

We repulsed enemy counter-attacks at Mieczyszcov.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A Russian official report says:—We repulsed attacks eastward of Brzezany and eastward of Lipitza Dolnai.

An Austrian official message claims that the positions at Brzezany which had fallen into the enemy's possession have been recaptured and maintained.

A German official message says: We drove out the enemy from crater lines, in which he was maintaining himself, on the Brzezany heights.

OVERWHELMING STRENGTH.

The accounts of Vienna correspondents from Austrian headquarters describe in serious language the overwhelming strength and determination of the Russian offensive in Galicia.

"The artillery bombardment in the northern sector," they state, "was so terrific that the Austrian positions were completely destroyed. Subsequently there were mass infantry attacks, supported by armoured motor cars. The enemy came forward in successive waves, five-fold superior to ourselves. Notwithstanding the heroic efforts of the Austrian troops to stand firm they were compelled to fall back yard by yard before the terrible attacks. The loss of our first line was inevitable in the face of such tactics."

A Hungarian detachment which remained overlong in the first line was surrounded and captured.

GERMAN ADMISSIONS.

German correspondents acknowledge that the Russians fought brilliantly, and only a few hundred were made prisoners.

POLISH AUTONOMY.

Professor Bakhmetieff, a member of the Russian mission to the United States, says that a special commission at Petrograd is preparing the establishment of a separate Polish nation.

AMERICA'S FRIENDSHIP.

President Wilson, in welcoming M. Bakhmetieff, said that Russia was overcoming the disloyalty from within, and the intrigue from without, and remained steadfast to the Allies' cause. The American mission had told Russia that she could count on the constant friendship of the United States, and co-operation in all she desired in appropriate directions.

ADVANCE IN ASIA MINOR.

A Russian communique announces that the Russian troops, advancing from Western Persia into Turkish territory, have occupied the town of Pendjvin (just across the border in Turkish territory, and almost due east of Mosul).

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

An official Russian message states that the enemy is offering a stubborn resistance in the heights southwards of Pendjvin, near the West Persian border.

GERMAN DESPAIR.

ADMIRAL JELLICOE'S VIEWS.

GRIT OF BRITISH SAILORS.

Admiralty Sir John Jellicoe, supporting their Majesties Fund for Sailors at the Mansion House meeting, described Germany's naval methods as indicative of despair. Long ago, he said, the Germans abandoned the laws and considerations of humanity, and made a desperate plunge, but they found themselves up against the grit of British sailors, and, therefore, they would not succeed.

FEARS IN GERMANY.

An Amsterdam message says: The increasing fear of the Germans that their unrestricted submarine campaign may be a failure is shown in the frequency of the official declaration that all goes well. The Minister for Marine and the Central Committee of the Reichstag have declared that, thanks to the submarines, the war will reach a happy ending.

FURTHER PEACE PROPOSALS LIKELY.

In an article published in Paris M. Marcel Hutin states that the German Emperor is paying a third visit to Vienna, King Charles has not been once to Berlin, he adds, and it is evident that a fresh attempt in favour of peace is being prepared.

The Milan correspondent of the 'Daily Telegraph" says that Hindenburg's visit to Vienna is chiefly concerned with the peace question, because General Brusiloff's attack has created a panic in Austro-Hungarian circles. The Austrian Emperor, when recently at Munich, emphasised Austria's need for peace. The German Emperor and Empress are expected in Vienna during the week-end.

PROFESSORS' MANIFESTO.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Amsterdam correspondent states that leading Conservative professors in Germany, including Professors Delbruck and Emil Fischer, have issued a remarkable manifesto urging the immediate passing of a general, direct, secret, and equal franchise to keep faith with the people. This would show, they state, that the Government trusts the nation as the nation deserves. The manifesto has caused a sensation, as the signatories have hitherto been strongly opposed to franchise reform.

RUSSIAN SHIP MINED.

It is officially announced that a Russian torpedoer of an old type was mined in the Black Sea.

DEFENDENTS OF SEAMEN.

Sir Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand, speaking at a Mansion House meeting, advocated a conference of managers of all funds for assisting the dependents of naval men or those employed on merchant vessels in order to prevent overlapping. He recalled that New Zealand had sent £100,000 for the dependents of those killed in the Jutland battle.

AMERICA.

FIGHTING U-BOATS.

MORE BIG LOANS.

A Washington message states that the United States Senate has accepted an amendment giving the President power to fix prices for all necessities.

Additional loans of £100,000,000 to Britain and £30,000,000 to Italy are announced.

Mr. Baker (Secretary of State for War) has sent on to Congress bills designed to provide 22,625 aeroplanes equipped with machine guns and bombs, and also to train 100,000 aviators. The total appropriation is 639 million dollars.

The Navy Department has learned that Germany has stationed a large fleet of U boats in the vicinity of the Azores in an effort to cut off the United States from her Allies.

An unconfirmed report states that an American transport aided in driving off a U boat which shelled Ponta Delgada, on the south coast of the Island of St. Michael, in the Azores.

A National Intelligence Department has been organised similar to that of Scotland Yard for the purpose of running down German spies. It includes all branches of the Secret Service.

A British steamer which has arrived is believed to have sunk a U boat. Passengers state that a submersible appeared on the evening of June 25 500 yards away, and the steamer fired on it. The submarine disappeared amid a cloud of black smoke.

Mrs. Wilson and the wives of Cabinet Ministers have signed the food pledge.

Following a storm of criticism, the Government has revoked the order providing that cables from France to New York newspapers must first be sent to Washington for inspection.

The question of the censorship is still causing widespread protests. Mr. Creel, the Chief Censor, is going to New York to confer with the editors of the newspapers.

An extraordinary situation has arisen regarding the official report of the transports' encounter with submarines cabled on the 3rd inst. The "New York World's" Washington correspondent points out that a Press despatch from England questioned the accuracy of the report. Mr. Creel, who prepared the official report, admits that he elaborated it slightly because it was rather cryptic, but both Mr. Creel and Mr. Daniels (Secretary for the Navy) maintain that the report was accurate. The "World" suggests that the original report from Admiral Gleaves be published.

LEAKAGE OF INFORMATION.

Lord Northcliffe, who is on a visit to the United States for the purpose of co-ordinating the war activities of Britain and America, has been interviewed in Washington by a representative of the United Press Agency. Commenting upon the leakage of information regarding the movements of the American transports, he advocated the strict censorship of business cables. He pointed out that it was easy to arrange cable codes.

THE BOMB PLOT.

HOW IT WAS UNEARTHED.

The Swedish Foreign Office, states a Copenhagen message, has ordered the prosecution of Baron Von Rosen, leader of the bomb expedition to the Finnish frontier a year ago. Baron Von Rosen, who is an ex-officer of the Swedish Guards, was also concerned in the Christiania bomb plot. He has fled to Germany.

Details of the Christiania plot show that a Finlander of good family transported the explosives to the Scandinavian capitals, and was later appointed secretary at the plotters' headquarters at Stockholm. The leader of the latter was a high-placed German exofficer receiving a big salary. The Finlander, tempted by a large reward for the discovery of commercial spies, revealed the names of the leading German agents. A trap was laid, and the Finlander, inventing a story about his ability to place infernal machines aboard a Wilson liner, obtained from the plotters two infernal machines and handed them to the Allied Legation at Christiania. This led to the unearthing of the plot.

DISTURBED CHINA.

The military and naval forces have passed resolutions inviting President Li Yuan Huang to transfer the Central Republican Government to Shanghai. The Chinese headquarters in San Francisco have received a cable stating that Dr Sun-Yat-Sen has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Republican naval forces.

Viscount Motono (Minister for Finance) announced in the Japanese Diet that Japan would pursue a policy of watchful waiting in regard to China, but the Government did not anticipate any sudden developments there.

NEUTRAL TRADE WITH GERMANY.

There was a debate in the House of Lords upon the British blockade of Germany, as a result of Lord Portsmouth's allegation that Denmark's exports of foodstuffs to Germany in 1916 had increased by 100 per cent. in 1916.

Lord Sydenham said that the blockade was our greatest weapon for shortening the war and yet it was imperfectly used. For two years we had shown excessive tenderness towards neutrals.

Lord Milner (member of the War Cabinet) replying, said he was prepared confidentially to disclose the trade of neutrals, but publication of these details would enlighten Germany as to our sources of information. Although the position of British imports from Holland and from Denmark was not quite satisfactory, it was not due to weakness at the Foreign Office. Imports were increasing. There had been large imports of butter and bacon from Denmark recently, in spite of the submarines, whose activities formerly were acute. The Government was doing its utmost to restrict Dutch and Scandinavian exports to Germany. He denied that there was tenderness to neutrals. The Government was not relaxing its vigilance in seeking to check Germany extorting imports from neutrals.

Lord Lansdowne protested against the statement that the previous Government was culpable in permitting imports to Germany. The quantities were almost negligible. Germany's overseas trade was now completely cut off. There could not be a greater calamity than driving neutrals into Germany's hands. There was a moment early in the war when that was likely.

SOCIALIST CONFERENCE.

Mr. Branting, the Swedish Socialist leader, has welcomed the Russian delegates who are conferring at Stockholm with the Austro-German delegation.

PRICE OF POTATOES.

CONSCRIPTION.

VOTING IN CANADA.

HOUSE PASSES THE BILL.

OTTAWA, July 6.

The House of Commons has passed the Conscription Bill by 118 votes to 55.

The greatest interest was taken in the conscription debate. The following proposals were voted on:—(1) Shelving the bill for six months; (2) a referendum; (3) the Government's conscription bill.

HOLLAND.

SERIOUS RIOTS.

The latest messages from Amsterdam state that the disorders are increasing. There are now 10,000 strikers. The military force has been increased to five battalions of infantry and a squadron of cavalry. Machine guns are posted at several points.

The "Daily Telegraph's" Amsterdam correspondent states that there were at least 10,000 strikers on Wednesday, including some munition workers. The police state that the causes of the disturbances are:—First, the food scarcity, which is being slowly remedied; secondly, the seeking of plunder by the rioters, upon whom the military were ordered to fire if necessary; and thirdly, revolutionary demonstrations by extremists.

An orgy of plunder and destruction commenced after dark. Youths looted cigar and silversmith shops, stoning the troops. After several warnings the troops fired on the crowd, killing four youths and wounding many.

Efforts to organise a general strike continue.

The "Daily Chronicle's" correspondent states that the seriousness of the situation is unbated. Socialists have held indignation meetings and adopted the cry, "We asked for food and received bullets."

The correspondent points out that the riots are not in the slightest of an anti-British nature.

BOMBS ON HARWICH.

GERMAN REPORT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

Our air squadron yesterday attacked military establishments near Harwich, and dropped several thousand kilograms of bombs, with good effect. All the aeroplanes returned.

The fact that the German air raiders did not attempt a sustained attack in their latest venture indicates that the pilots are suffering from "nerves," owing to their disasters in recent raids. But for the parting bomb, which caused casualties in Harwich, the raid would have been the most innocuous yet attempted.

THE ARGENTINE.

ULTIMATUM TO GERMANY.

A Note sent from Argentina to Germany is virtually an ultimatum breaking off relations, unless the Argentine is indemnified for past outrages, and guaranteed against future sinkings.

THE WHEAT EMBARGO.

In the House of Commons Mr. Tyson Wilson (Labour member) asked whether the Government had information that Argentina at present possesses between 200,000 and 300,000 tons of grain in excess of the amount revealed in official statistics, and if so whether it would endeavour to have the embargo on the export of grain to Europe removed.

Lord Robert Cecil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replied that the Government had no information that Argentina's statistics were incorrect. The Government had made every effort to secure the removal of the embargo, but without success.

INDIA'S WAR EFFORTS.

SIMLA, July 5.

A Central Recruiting Board has been constituted by the Governor-General more effectively to organise man-power in India in order to meet the growing demands made upon it. Sir William Meyer, Finance Minister, is the president. The members include Sir Michael O'Dwyer (Lieut.-Governor, Punjab), the Maharajah of Gwalior, the Maharajah of Bikaner, Sir Claude Hill, Sir William Vincent, General Hudson, and General A. H. Bingley.

The functions of the board will be precisely those which every nation has found it necessary to entrust to a special authority; the reconciliation of war demands with the essential needs of industry and commerce; calling for concentrated control in one body. Local governments are asked to form provincial boards to assist the central body.

THE LIQUOR TRADE.

LONDON, July 5.

The liquor position has become one of the most popular topics among the masses.

The Glasgow Corporation is taking a plebiscite on prohibition.

Mr. Bonar Law, in the course of the debate on the Mesopotamia report on Thursday, said the Government had decided to allow one-third more beer to be brewed this quarter, but there would be a reduction of the gravity in a considerable portion of the beer. Some would be placed at the disposal of the Food Controller for harvest purposes, and some would go to the munition areas. There was sufficient malt for an increased barrelage. More sugar would be required, but not more grain.

At a crowded meeting in London retail licensees protested against further Government interference with the liquor trade. The speakers emphasised the acute unrest throughout the country over beer, and they did not desire to be a party to the Government's suggestion for selling a concoction which looked and tasted like beer, but was not beer. A resolution opposing Government control was carried.

In the House of Commons, on a motion for adjournment, Mr. Liefchild Jones (Liberal member for Rushcliffe division of Nottinghamshire), drew attention to the Government's change of policy in increasing the beer output. There would be a further draft on the limited sugar supplies, he said. Was the nation to understand that the food crisis had ended?

Mr. Devlin retorted that he always found the teetotallers liked to see other people making sacrifices.

NEUTRALS AND MINE-LAYING.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Arthur Fell asked whether the Government was making representations to neutrals with reference to mine-laying in seas far from the main scene of war, and whether damages would be claimed covering the value of the ships and cargoes thus sunk.

Lord Robert Cecil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that the Government intended exacting reparation from any neutrals allowing vessels to leave their ports for mine-laying purposes.

ENGLISH RACING.

The Jockey Club has decided to accept the Government's offer of 40 days' racing, and will hold 28 days' racing at Newmarket, and 12 in the provinces if possible.

MR. HOLMAN.

INJURED BY BURSTING SHELL.

LONDON, July 6.

Mr. Holman, Premier of New South Wales, was injured by a shell explosion whilst on a visit to the Western front on Monday.

A heavy shell burst near Mr. Holman while he was visiting the trenches. The Germans were aimlessly searching the area.

Mr. Holman was bruised, and also suffered from severe shock, but he is recovering.

Later.

A message from London states that the force of the explosion knocked down Mr. Holman.

Yesterday the Acting Premier received a cable message from the secretary to the Premier's Department, who is now in London, asking that all concerned be advised that no member of Mr. Holman's party had been injured.

WAR NOTES.

WEST AND EAST.

This morning's cablegrams show little alteration in the general situation on the various fronts. In addition to the repulse of the recent enemy attack upon their positions northward of the Ancre, the French claim to have captured a salient slightly to the eastward of the point where the enemy's attacks of last Tuesday night were most violent. While he is still making occasional attacks on the French line, near Hill 304, on the western side of the Meuse, the enemy's later efforts there do not appear to have met with any success. The British near Hollebeke have pushed a short section of their line a little closer to the Ypres-Comines canal, but, apart from this, their activity has mainly been confined to raids and aerial combats. The news from Russia is brief, and does not justify any great expectations regarding the collapse of the enemy's defence. On the contrary, there is reason to believe that his resistance is being tightened up on the threatened sector in Eastern Galicia. The Russian official message makes no mention of any continuance of the advance, but claims to have repulsed enemy attacks eastward and southeastward of Brzezany. This suggests that the Austro-Germans have been able to take advantage of their excellent railway communications to rush reinforcements into the sector where the gap in their line appeared under the strain of the first Russian attack. Both the Austrian and German communiques claim that their counter-attacks regained certain positions which the Russians had secured near Brzezany. Whether this is correct or not, there does not seem to be much doubt that, so far, the Russians have not improved on their earlier gains to any considerable extent.

VALUE OF PRISONERS OF WAR.

It is doubtful whether a more eloquent testimony could be produced regarding the part which Great Britain has played in the war than that provided by the official figures relating to captures of prisoners and guns which appear this morning. The fact that Britain holds more than two prisoners of war for every one of her soldiers captured by the Central Powers must provide a striking contrast with the position during the early days of the war, when, as a result of the retreat from Mons, the proportion was very much in the enemy's favour. Besides providing a healthy indication of the way in which the pendulum has swung back to the detriment of the Central Powers, this preponderance of enemy prisoners of war is a growing asset of no small value. This would hardly be the case if we were fighting a chivalrous enemy, who had observed the generally accepted rules of war and the ordinary principles of humanity. Germany has shown that she is prepared to commit any conceivable crime against civilisation, if it will forward her plans to the slightest degree, and it is generally believed that she has not yet reached the limit of her policy of ruthlessness. She has already shown a marked inclination to illtreat her prisoners of war, and it is quite conceivable that she may threaten to take certain drastic action with regard to them if the military situation continues to turn to her disadvantage. The best pledge for the safety of the Allied prisoners in enemy hands is the presence of a greater number of enemy soldiers in our own concentration camps. No one could welcome the necessity for reprisals against prisoners, but the knowledge that a greater number of his subjects would suffer if both sides instituted such a policy should deter the enemy from applying any drastic measures to the defenceless prisoners at present in his power.

ENEMY'S LOSS OF MATERIAL.

If the figures relating to prisoners are expressive of the share which Great Britain is taking in the war, those referring to the capture of guns are more so. For every British gun remaining in the possession of the enemy we hold more than seven of his. Even if we did not know of the results obtained during the offensives of the Somme, Arras, and Messines, and had only an elementary knowledge of the conditions of modern warfare, these facts would be sufficient to show the successes which had attended the efforts of the British forces. Sir Douglas Haig announced in one of his despatches during the progress of the battle of the Somme that the aim of the allied offensive was to weaken the enemy's strength in men, material, and moral. The announcement that the British have captured 739 enemy guns, and have suffered an absolute loss of only 96 of their own weapons, demonstrates the effective nature of their contribution towards the attainment of the allied objective, as far as the weakening of the enemy's strength in material is concerned. At the same time it is possible to overestimate the significance of these statistics regarding captures of prisoners and guns. The enemy possessed the initiative at a time when the British forces on the fighting front were very much weaker in strength than they have been since they gained that initiative. The section of the front which they occupied at the time Germany was securing her hauls of prisoners was a comparatively small one. A comparison of the total allied captures and of the total captures of the Central Powers would not show such a pronounced balance on the wrong side of the enemy's ledger. While, therefore, these figures do not by any means suggest that all is over except the shouting, they offer convincing proof of the importance of Great Britain's military effort, and provide a fitting reply to the German Emperor's early remarks regarding the "contemptible British army."

POSSESSION OF THE INITIATIVE.

We cannot pass over these official figures without drawing special attention to the concluding portion of the message, which deals with the combined British and French captures during the past three months. These possess an added interest when read in the light of the enemy's explanation of his withdrawal from the Somme battlefield and from the Noyon salient. This explanation appeared in most of the German papers, with such similarity in each case as to suggest that it had been communicated to them from an authoritative source. A Baden newspaper conveyed it to its readers in the following terms:—"All the projects of our enemy are now in disarray, and the initiative has passed into the hands of the German generals." The captures which the British and French have made since these words were first written show how little the Allied projects had fallen into disarray, and how the initiative has failed to pass into the hands of the German generals. It was on March 28, two days before the opening of the period covered by the figures published this morning, that the German Chancellor gave an official touch to the explanation mentioned above by stating that:—"On the Western front the operation of retirement continues according to plan, and is giving liberty of action which increases with every day that passes." The withdrawal then was evidently intended to rob the Allies of the power of taking the offensive, which they had used with such effect during the battle of the Somme. We produce below the figures showing the British and French captures of prisoners and material during the four months of the Somme offensive, from July 1 to November 1, 1916, and also those which appear in the cablegram published this morning covering the period of the last three months:—

	Prisoners.	Guns.	Trench Mortars.	Machine-guns.
1916.—
4 months	72,981 ..	303 ..	215 ..	981
1917.—
3 months	61,222 ..	209 ..	203 ..	7318

It will be seen that in the shorter period during the present year the British and French have captured many more guns than they did during the most strenuous four months of the Somme battle, while the number of prisoners taken during the last three months is less than 10,000 short of the total for the four months of the Somme fighting.

WAR-TIME PROFITS TAX.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Treasurer (Sir John Forrest) has given a great deal of thought to the war time profits tax, and is understood to have decided that the bill submitted to the last Parliament needs to be amended in several particulars.

SALE OF WHEAT CONTRACT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Minister in charge of foodstuffs (Senator Russell), in replying to-day to the criticism that the amount of commission paid to the agents on the sale of 3,000,038 tons of Australian wheat to the Imperial Government was excessive, contended that a misconception existed as to the services performed. He said the remuneration to agents was reasonable, although the sum involved, £75,000, appeared large. He said it should be understood that its effect on the sale price was inappreciable. It was anticipated that, taking all charges into consideration, the net result of the 3,000,000-ton sale would not be even a fraction of a penny below 4s 8d a bushel f.o.b. It should not be assumed that the sum of £75,000 was clear. The London agency had to pay the whole of its own expense, including the payment of London representatives, the upkeep of staff, office rent, and cost of cable messages, and so forth. The value of the services rendered by the London agency in attending to the details of the contract might be indicated by the fact that on one transaction alone it effected a saving of £20,000. While it appeared nominally as an f.o.b. contract, it was in reality a c.i.f. transaction, with additional obligations and operations seldom included even in a contract of the latter description.

SOLDIER FALLS FROM TRAIN.

WAGGA, Friday.

Whilst the train which left Melbourne with the returned wounded soldiers last evening was travelling on the Wagga side of The Rock, a soldier stepped on to the platform ahead of the car. A few minutes later he was missed by his comrades. The train was stopped, and a party sent back along the line. The unfortunate man was found lying at the side of the tracks. He must have been thrown off as the train swung around the curve, and, striking the permanent way, sustained serious injuries. His identification disc bore the name of E. Marshall, a Queenslander. The injured man was placed on another train carrying soldiers, and brought into Wagga Hospital, where he lies in a serious condition, suffering from concussion of the brain, and serious lacerations of the head and body.

COAL EXPORTS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The exports of coal for the week ended to-day totalled 53,565.

LATE WAR NEWS.

ATTACKS ON FRENCH.

The "Daily Chronicle's" correspondent with the French Headquarters telegraphs:—"Tuesday's defeat of the Crown Prince's troops was the severest since the French offensive in April. The Germans attempted a grand operation on a twelve-mile front from Jouy to Craonne. The fact that they attacked in the evening indicates they expected a rapid success because the artillery co-operation was handicapped and couldn't assist in a prolonged, changing battle. The French defended obstinately, and quickly broke the shock of the assault. A hard hand-to-hand struggle followed all night long with almost incredible tenacity. The recovery of every yard of lost ground within 12 hours under such conditions was an unprecedented achievement. It is noteworthy that the Germans do not mention their tremendous tragic offensive; instead, they falsely claim great captures westward of Cerny, where the French did not lose a single man.

OVER 2,000,000 IRON CROSSES.

AMSTERDAM, July 5.

Altogether 49,000 Iron Crosses of the first-class and 2,200,500 of the second-class have been awarded to German troops.

GERMAN POLITICAL REFORMS.

The constitutional committee of the Reichstag discussed the suffrage question. Both of the socialist parties urged immediate legislation. Herr Mueller, Progressive, affirmed that the Reichstag possessed sovereign powers in connection with the suffrage. The National Liberals support, but the Conservatives and Centre party oppose Herr Mueller's view.

According to the socialist majority organ "International Korrespondens," the Socialists will henceforth make their vote on war credits dependent upon internal political reforms.

LIQUOR QUESTION.

In the House of Commons Sir George Cave (Secretary for the Home Department) denied that there had been a change of policy on the part of the Government in regard to the liquor question. The Government's decision was necessitated by serious considerations wholly connected with the conduct of the war. There was undoubtedly a shortage of beer in various parts of the country, causing serious unrest and interfering with the output of munitions. Strikes were threatening, he added. Perhaps Government control was the remedy, but it required great preparation, and an immediate palliative was necessary. The men needed beer to carry on their work, and it was not for the House of Commons to say whether they were right or wrong. It was proposed to permit 970,000 additional barrels till the end of September. The decision involved more malt, but the brewers had not received increased sugar rations. Half the additional beer would be of the lighter variety.

CONSTANTINE'S BROTHER.

Prince George, a brother of the ex-King Constantine, has arrived in Berlin.

FRANCE'S DAY.

Subscriptions amounting to £1322 12s 6d reached the France's Day committee at 159 King-street yesterday. They included £45 from the Trocadero and Draymen's Union, £16½ from the Newtown, Balmain, and West Wyalong Flour Mills' and Millers' Associations, and £250 from the Colonial Sugar Refining Company. There was also the 10s of a sovereign, who for the past two and a half years has at frequent intervals sent the French-Australian League postal notes for small sums from various towns in New South Wales, no name or address ever being given. A concert given on June 29 in St. James's Hall by Mrs Bevern, assisted by Miss Gladys Wilson and Mr. W. A. Hagon, realised the net sum of £130, the expenses only amounting to £3.

Mr. Joseph Cook's hat, which he missed at the conference of the National party on Thursday, made its reappearance at night at the National Debating Club's smoke social to the delegates to the Allora Rooms, where it was sold at auction for £3/10/ 10d, the minister finally buying it back.

Mr. Minnett, who is organising the motor display for next Friday, wants still more decorated cars entered for the competition. Miss Ada Reeve is to be judge for the occasion. Two cars are also wanted to distribute boxes on Monday, and others for transport work, including some lorries, on Friday.

Forbes has intimated a probable collection of £2000. The employees at the Newcastle steel works are giving 6d in the £ from their next week's wages, and are also promoting a concert.

Miss Ada Reeve will assist at the British Empire League stall in Martin-place. Mrs. Hunh D. McIntosh is to have charge of this stall.

An interesting souvenir in the shape of an "Assignat," or "National banknote" of the French Revolution (Republic, 1793), has been given (by Mr. Henry Lord) to the Technical College stall (corner of Moore and Castlereagh streets), where it will be sold at auction on Friday, 13th instant.

The Technical College students have taken a stall for France's Day, July 13, on the corner of Moore and Castlereagh streets (Ocean House side), and all college students past and present are invited to combine to make the first public patriotic effort of their college a great success. Any donations in money or goods will be gratefully received at the Technical College on or before Wednesday.

LOAN EXHIBITION.

In connection with the Red Cross section of the French Village Fair in aid of France's Day, a loan exhibition of war trophies is being arranged, to be opened by Mr. Aug. James, Minister for Education, in the art gallery of the Education-building on July 10. The exhibition, which will be one of unique interest, will remain open for a week. An admission charge of 1s will be made. The committee invites exhibits from anyone possessing interesting relics of the war. All exhibits will be placed in locked showcases, and will be insured. The hon. organiser, Miss Beulah Bolton, will be at the art gallery of the Educational Department (Loftus-street entrance) daily from 9.30 to 4.30 to receive exhibits. Contributors are asked to send their exhibits as early as possible to facilitate the preparation of a souvenir catalogue which will contain the names of all contributors. Exhibits already in place include objects of great interest and historic value, among them being a German flare pistol, several gas masks and "saw" bayonets, also a flexible saw and other ingenious tools used by the enemy.

FRENCH VILLAGE FAIR.

The magnificent sum of £3009 obtained for France's Day Fund will be held in Macquarie-place by the committee of the French Village Fair at 1.45 p.m. on Friday next. The goods will be on view during the week at No. 7 Young-street, and on the morning of the sale in Macquarie-place.

THE "DARG."

USED AT SEAHAM COLLIERY.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The Northern Coal Board, presided over by Mr. G. E. Flaherty, sat to-day, to inquire into the Pelaw Main, Abermain, and Seaham No. 2 colliery disputes.

Mr. Ogilvie, manager of Pelaw Main colliery, said that the mine was idle on Tuesday through a strike, but work was resumed yesterday and continued to-day. He could not find out the cause of the stoppage.

Mr. Baddeley, president of the Colliery Employees' Federation, replied that the dispute arose over the greasers on the surface. The trouble was now over.

Mr. Jeffries, superintendent for the Abermain Company, said that Abermain Colliery was idle last Friday, Saturday, and Monday, owing to a dispute between two sections of the employees—the machine men and the miners.

Mr. Flannery said that all he was concerned with was whether there now existed a dispute causing a stoppage, and he was informed by Mr. Bermel that the dispute was now settled.

Mr. Jeffries referred to the strike at Seaham No. 2, and said that the mine was idle on Wednesday and Thursday, but was working to-day. He understood that if the present dispute was not settled this week the miners would not work on Monday. The men had taken upon themselves to alter the working conditions which had been in existence ever since the colliery started. They had introduced the "darg," or the limitation of output, and he protested emphatically against the attitude the men had taken up. The order of Mr Justice Edmunds gave the men increased rates and reduced working hours, but provided that the customs and conditions at the colliries should continue. He held that that should be binding, and requested the chairman to rule that the men be asked to continue work as hitherto.

Mr. Baddeley, in reply, said that the miners had had a system inaugurated in the district for some time to regulate the supply of skips. It was called "the tara." The grievance at Seaham No. 2 had been in existence for the past two years, and the officers had men of the lodge had approached the manager for an equal distribution of skips.

Mr. Flannery: If this "darg" has been put on only for the purpose of equalising the skips fairly and reasonably, and if, as a result of that distribution, the wheelers did not get a day's work, that seemed to be an impasse.

After sitting in camera for over two hours it was decided that there should be an equal distribution of skips. Two representatives from each side will superintend the distribution. Other details were arranged to suit the wheelers.

WHEAT POOL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The payments made by the Australian Wheat Board up to Monday last in respect of the 1915-16 pool came to £22,416,000, including £2,127,000 given in advances, and £4,279,000 in expenses on account of the 1914-17 pool. The expenditure amounted to £17,864,000, of which £16,061,000 was for advances, and £1,903,000 for expenses. The overdraft due to the banks in respect of both pools on July 2 was £1,234,000. The total realised from the sale of wheat shipped abroad, and disposed of locally was £34,171,000. Of the 1915-16 wheat put into the pool 11,019,000 bags, each containing three bushels, were held in Australia. The quantity forwarded for the 1917 pool was 40,189,000 bags, and 42,188,000 bags are held in the Commonweal

INCOME TAXES.

AN OWNER'S RESIDENCE.

"Tax" writes:—

If taxpayer only occupies his house for six months of the financial year, and then sells it, is he liable for the 5 per cent. for the full year, or pro rata, only for the time he uses it? which in my case is six months.

The owner pays tax on 5 per cent. of the value of the house, calculated for the period of the year it is in his possession.

A SOLDIER'S INCOME.

"Income" wants to know:—

Whether soldiers on active service are liable to State and Federal income tax, and if a soldier having retired in March, 1916, will have to pay on his full income to the 30th June, 1916, and also whether a return needs to be put in on his behalf for current year, ending June, 1917.

Soldiers are liable to State income tax if their income earned in Australia, or received from property in Australia, exceeds £250. Soldiers are also liable to pay Federal income tax on income derived from property. As regards income derived from personal exertion, the Federal taxing authority charges soldiers with tax on income earned prior to enlistment. This, we believe, is illegal. In our view, the Act provides that soldiers' income from personal exertion earned "prior to the commencement of this Act, or during the present state of war," shall not be charged with income tax. Probably the Legislature never contemplated soldiers should escape taxation on income not earned as a soldier, but there is no ambiguity in the Act.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Chemicals continued in request yesterday. Carbide was advanced to £62 a ton. Stocks were extremely low and are likely to be lower before relief is experienced. Most contracts for delivery contain the clause that delivery is conditional on shipments not being delayed by war conditions. Japanese carbide was quoted at £50 c.i.f. A little Burma sold at £68. Soda ash was quoted at £28. Caustic soda 76 per cent. (English) was worth £55, and for American £5 less would have been accepted. English caustic of 70-72 strength was worth £50 a ton. Bicarbonate of soda had movement at £18 in 1cwt kegs and £17 in 3cwt kegs. The acids were well held. Cream of tartar 60s per cent. was quoted at 3/. Citric acid inquiries at 2/10. Among the poisons strychnine was available in small quantities at 11/ an ounce, and for white arsenic 55/ a cwt was wanted. Both were in demand. Phosphorus was worth 4/6 to 5/ a pound.

All wrapping papers had keen inquiries, especially grease-proof papers. The importers were buying back wherever possible.

The oil market was unchanged at late firm rates. A cable was received quoting Blundell, Spence's oil at 4/10 f.o.b. This was 1½d below the cable added, were unprocurable; Drumac, the cable added, were unprocurable; only casks could be supplied as containers. At the price quoted the landed cost was found to be such as to leave no profit margin. Meggitt's Australian oil was selling at 6/3 per drum in Sydney. Linseed oil was firm yesterday, when it was unanimously resolved to endorse the decision arrived at by the Melbourne conference referred to. The letter in question reads as follows:—

"I beg to advise you that a cablegram is just to hand from the High Commissioner as follows:—

'Export saddlers' and general ironmongery, including harness, Ministry of Munitions now states that only such orders as were ready for shipment before the end of 1916 will be allowed export licenses. No raw material will be allowed to complete unexecuted 1916 orders. Such and later orders should be placed outside the United Kingdom.'

"On receipt of this cablegram I communicated with the Hardware Association and with the British Manufacturers' Association, asking them to arrange for representatives of the associations to meet me to discuss the matter, when it was decided, that, in view of the very definite wish of the British Minister of Munitions that Australian merchants should place their orders for hardware outside the United Kingdom at the present time, pressure should not be brought to bear on the Minister in this ruling, especially in view of the fact that a cable was forwarded to the High Commissioner some time ago, asking him to get a definite expression of opinion as to whether the Minister of Munitions really wished to have Australian orders for hardware, or whether Australia was being supplied purely out of compliment. I shall be glad if you will be good enough to communicate as early as possible with the members of your association in Sydney conveying to them the decision of the Minister of Munitions, so that they can make the necessary arrangements to procure their supplies elsewhere. A cablegram has been sent to the High Commissioner asking him to advise by cable immediately the quantities of each line in Great Britain, and immediately the goods are once more available for export I will notify you without delay.

"Yours faithfully,

"(Signed) WALTER LEITCH,

"Director of Munitions."

CEREALS.

LONDON, July 4.

Wheat is liberally offered, but business is slow. Present requirements are well covered.

Flour is dull. Australian patents are scarce at 81/ per sack of 280lb.

Barley is quiet, and without change.

Oats are neglected, and are tending to be lower. Australians are not offering.

Peas and beans are dull and lower. New Zealands are not offering.

SUGAR.

The sugar market is without change.

TURPENTINE.

Turpentine was quoted to-day (Wednesday) at 55/ per cwt. equal to 4/2.09 per gallon—an advance of 6d per cwt. or 46d per gallon.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

BUTTERS CONTRASTED.

Butter is firmer, as the result of the all-round shortage. Australian is very scarce. Finest Australian and New Zealand are quoted all maximum, Australian 194/, New Zealand 200/ per cwt. respectively.

The trade believes that the increase of the maximum is not likely in the immediate future, and that to-morrow the price will not be altered, but as there is every prospect of the shortage continuing, it is fully expected that revision upward is inevitable in the next week or two.

The general opinion in Tooley-street is that misapprehension exists in Australia regarding the 6s margin between the Australian and New Zealand maximum prices. Prior to the imposition of maximum prices the difference in value sometimes amounted to 12s, due partly to accidental circumstances. Finest New Zealand, which was then arriving in considerable quantities, was of even quality and faultless grading, and thus replaced Danish butter, supplies of which had temporarily ceased. On the other hand, finest Australian butter is comparatively scarce. Traders considered the grading not equal to New Zealand. This difference is taken into account in fixing the maximum prices. Tooley-street agents insist that the 6s margin equitably represents the difference of market values. Australian representatives consider the question of prestige should not be overlooked, urging that time has come to press for a narrower margin when the maximum prices were next altered. They point out that while neither Australian nor New Zealand butter was sold at the maximum price, the margin was a matter of less consequence, but as both have now reached the maximum, the margin should be reduced. They hope to secure a reduction to 4s or less.

The position of cheese is unaltered. None has yet been released.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

* CASE EGGS SLOW.

An active inquiry continued for new-laid eggs in Sussex-street yesterday, but values continued unchanged. Case eggs were firmer at from 1/2 to 1/3.

New cheese was eagerly sought, but supplies again proved light, and it was stated that the consumption had fallen off 50 per cent. Bacon and other dairy produce lines cleared with satisfactory business.

A large proportion of the Queensland butter which is being supplied to Victoria is said to be of poor quality, and it is understood that Melbourne importers, whose consignments have been graded below the quality contracted for, intend to claim compensation. Some Brisbane houses are anxious sellers at well under the Federal pool quotations.

Quotations were:—

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

MAIZE WEAKER.

The arrival of about 2600 bags of maize from the Clarence River effected a weakening in the maize market. White and yellow varieties were to be had at 3/3 to 3/4 per bushel. Oats held firm, and satisfactory business was reported in forage lines.

RAILWAY MARKET.

CHAFF DOWN.

Fair supplies of fodder arrived for sale at Alexandria yesterday, but owing to recent heavy yardings a poor demand was met, and prices throughout showed a decrease on late rates. The weakening effect was chiefly felt for medium and inferior grades, while for firmer quality buyers were more prepared to bid. Choice wheaten chaff made up to £4 with other grades ranging from £/7 to £/10. Oaten chaff was in moderate supply and very good quality, the highest price obtained at auction being £/3. A choice consignment of oaten hay found a buyer readily at £/3, while others lots brought £/6 and £/5/6. In the lucerne section light arrivals were on hand, but as practically no demand prevailed no serious alterations in prices were made.

The late firmness in potato prices was partly lost owing to backwardness on the part of dealers to bid. Agents are not prepared to sell the stocks much below recent rates. Fully half of yesterday's supply consisted of seed varieties, the best of which brought £/. Table potatoes ranged from 4/ upwards.

The yarding comprised 83 trucks of forage, seven of grain, and 20 of potatoes; while the manifest included 155 trucks of forage, 28 of grain, and 19 of vegetables.

MINING.

RECOVERY IN DEEPS.

A fair turnover was effected in mining scrip on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and prices for the chief copper, silver, and gold propositions showed a healthy recovery. Chief interest was again centred in the speculative Edna May group, and Deeps figured foremost on the sale boards. A telegram received early from the Deep Levels mine stated:—"Crosscut advanced to 63ft, face in dyke, bulk value about 4dwt, some stones show gold freely, think close to reef." Its effect on business was very perceptible, and dealing was very active on the morning 'Change, a recovery of 9d to 9s being effected ere noon. Before closing time, however, the market sagged to 8s 9d. Consols also hardened but Centrals seemed a shade weaker.

A strong rise in British (old) to 20/9 was the chief feature of transactions in Barrier scrip, and numerous sales were booked, between 20s 6d and 20s 9d, but the closing price was 3d lower. B.H. South, paid, recovered to £8 4s, and "Hills" moved up to 43s 6d. Tin interests were rather dull. Kampongs and Vegetable Creek were stationary, while Carpathias sold in seller's favour at about recent rates. Sellers of Tronoh came down to 9s 3d, and buyers appeared at 8s 10½, making a sick market for the stock, but otherwise Malayan tins were firm. A strong buyer of Austral Malays appeared at 25s, an advance of 3s, but no sellers declared. Copper concerns were inactive, though firm, and C.S.A. changed hands at the enhanced rate of 20s 3d.

RETURNED FROM THE FIRING LINE.

HE PRAISES DR. SHELDON'S NEW DISCOVERY.

"I would like to say that Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery has been better to me even than my luck. I escaped the severe colds some of my comrades had because of my habit of taking a sip of New Discovery every day. It seems to have made my throat and lungs cold-resistant. I am glad to be able to add my testimony to the many pals who have found New Discovery their mascot.

"PTE. HARLEY COHEN,

"No. 27, A Company, 4th Batt., A.I.F."

FIRST AT THE FRONT AND FIRST AT HOME.

Our brave boys have enough suffering and danger to endure in the trenches without letting them run unnecessary risk of colds, perhaps ending in serious throat and chest troubles. We all know what boys are, and how neglectful they are if mother is not there to keep them up to the mark, so protect your boys by sending them a bottle of Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery, the prompt and effective cold-banisher. They will be delighted at your thoughtfulness, and take it to please you at first, and finding that it banishes the cold and eases the throat so quickly, later they will fly to it for relief at the first sign of a cold. Don't forget, NEW DISCOVERY is a necessary in the home as in the trenches; so buy two bottles to-day, one for your soldier boy, the other for home use.

STRONG WHERE MOST TYRES ARE WEAK.

PALMER CORD TYRES.
PALMER CORD TYRES.

At the bead, where so many makes of tyres are weakest, the PALMER CORD TYRE is specially strengthened, because the impregnated cords which form the foundation are looped round endless "anchors" at the bead, thus giving great strength without affecting flexibility. THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

The popularity of the "PAIGE" Car is so great that the factories are 4 to 5 months behind with their orders. The term, "The Most Beautiful Car in America" was given to the Paige Car at the last New York show, and it applies not only to the outside of the Car, but also to the inside. Paige Cars are selling among the class of people who require the best, and who have always sought and paid for the best.

One Gentleman, who has bought a Paige, has let his English Daimler Car, that has had very little running, with us for Sale. We can sell you this Daimler Car, which cost between £1800 and £1900, for £450. Another Gentleman has left his Talbot Car, for which he paid £750, that has only run a few thousand miles altogether, for £325; also a F.I.A.T., which cost £575, can sell for £225; Darracq, which cost £350, can sell for £130; Studebaker, which cost £625, sell for £250; also half a dozen others.

Paige Prices:—2-3 Passenger, £775; 5-6 Passenger, £685; 7-8 Passenger, £315 to £575. Australian bodies £30 extra.

A little more and you get a Paige. Write to us for set catalogue.

BOWENS, LIMITED, SYDNEY, KEMPSEY, June 22, 1917.

Dear Sirs,—Please supply a Frame and Glass for Windscreen for Jeffery 15cwt Truck—our driver put one of the trucks over a bank last week, and although it was upside down the engine went on running—the only damage of any moment was the frame work and glass of the windscreen smashed. We have now had the trucks six months, and they are giving great satisfaction. They are very light on tyres, considering we use Pneumatics, and taking into consideration the loads we carry. I may state that we have been running them with "Kall" heavy benzine, which, until recently, has only been costing us 1s 8d a case; and we do the trip with the Mails to Bellingen and back (160 miles) on eight gallons, which works out at 17½ miles to the gallon. The fact that we can do this with heavy benzine means a great saving with the present price of petrol. Yours faithfully (Signed) WILSON and COMPANY.
